"BOODLE" FOR OREGON.

The New York Custom House to Pay the Fiddler.

FOR THE ADMINISTRATION'S DANCE

A Land Ruling in Relation to the Oregon Central Grant—Defenses on Puget Sound—Notes of Interest to Oregon

WASHINGTON, May 14—It is stated on unquestionable authority that a democratic senator, in conversation with the collector of the port of New York said that money had to be raised at that office for the Oregon campaign It is clear now that this "reform" administration is going to use the great financial machine at the port of New York to collect a corruption fund to renew its lease of power The statement that either importers are going to be taxed or that the office-holders will be forced to contribute is made upon the very highest authority

The scheme to make the New York custom house a mint for the next campaign was discouraged by the democratic senator who has great reputation as a politician, and the collector of the port of New York The first contribution which will be made will be applied to Oregon and if the democratic management think that Oregon cannot be carried by fair means they are determined to win the election there by foul means It is of great importance to know that the most important fiscal agency in the country the New York custom house, is to be prostituted to supply a campaign fund for Cleveland, the reformer The blackmail that it is proposed to levy can be collected without fear of detection Importers whose invoices are large could be made to see very quickly that a $50 000 contribution to the election in Oregon would be a great profit to them during the year

It is possible that the democrats will not resort to levying a small tax upon the office-holders, because it is more easily detected and exposed than blackmailing merchants

It is positive that the New York custom house is going to produce largely for the next campaign and the first output is to be devoted to Oregon On Saturday this matter was fully discussed, and the collector of customs of New York was directed to make his machine produce as big a campaign fund as possible at once

A LAND DECISION MODIFIED.

One of the Complications Under the Oregon Central Grant.

WASHINGTON, May 14—Secretary Vilas has modified the decision of the commissioners of the general land office in rejecting the section of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company for lots 3 4 and five and one-half of a section of land in section 7 township 9 North range 4 West, Vancouver W T, and allowing Andy P Anderson to purchase this land under the act of January 31 1885 This land is within the limit of the grant to the Oregon Central Railroad Company by act of May 4, 1870, and within the limits of the grant made to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company by the joint resolution of May 31, 1870

The Northern Pacific Company appeals from the decision of the commissioner, urging that the grant to the Oregon Central had not embraced lands outside the state of Oregon and that the tract being in Washington territory was not included in that grant The question had been previously considered, and it was held that the grant to the Oregon Central did extend into Washington territory The secretary holds that the Northern Pacific had no legal claim to this land as at the date of the grant to the Northern Pacific Co and of its definite location, the land was embraced in the grant to the Oregon Central road and therefore excepted from the grant to that company By act of January 31 1885 granted lands along the uncompleted portions of the Oregon Central road were declared forfeited to the United States and restored to the public domain Andy R Anderson applied at the local land office, but as the record does not satisfactorily disclose the nature of claimant's alleged settlement the secretary has directed that he be given sixty days in which to furnish evidence as will show his compliance with the law and that the purchase be held in abeyance until such evidence is produced

OREGON INTERESTS

The River and Harbor Bill—Pension Notes, Etc.

WASHINGTON May 14—Senator Dolph said to-day that he proposed to see that a number of appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors of Oregon should be increased He thinks his state has been neglected by the house committee and as he is a member of the committee on commerce in the senate to which the bill has been referred he will take the opportunity to enlarge the appropriation for Oregon He said that the committee was at work upon the bill and would in all probability have it done in three or four weeks

The supreme court has adjourned for the summer vacation It did not decide an important Oregon case, which was listed, and which was looked for and is known as the Narrow Gauge lease suit

PENSIONS FOR THE NORTHWEST

WASHINGTON May 14—Representative Hermann has secured the passage of a bill by the house granting a pension of $72 per month to F Bruo, a resident of East Portland.

Pensions were granted to-day as follows Oregon—Original invalid David G Garrison Arlington Hawkins H Shock Eagle Point Survivors of 1812 increase by special act James Woodrey Grant's Pass Reissue Felix R Neale East Portland Mexican survivor Charles Stoker Oregon City Washington territory—Mexican survivor Cecil A Flower Melbourne

DEFENSES ON PUGET SOUND

The Secretary of War Thinks There is Plenty of Time

WASHINGTON May 14—A letter of the secretary of war was laid before the senate to-day in response to a resolution of the 27th of March calling for information as to the necessity of fortifications upon Puget sound The secretary submits extracts from the reports of chief engineers who have had charge of the Pacific coast defenses as far back as 1860 Brigadier General Duane chief of engineers states that the conditions of to-day are unfavorable to any fortified positions exterior to Admiralty inlet Sites for a second line of defense should be chosen and plans made so that they could be utilized if need be for the first line of defense The location of a naval station should be made but nothing further should be done at present The secretary of war concurs in the recommendations

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS

Continuation of the Debate on the Mills Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON May 14—Woodburn of Nevada introduced a bill for the erection of a public building at Reno Nev

The house went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill Hatch of Missouri said the protective tariff had inured to the benefit of the manufacturers alone and the farmers and consuming masses had no share in those benefits

Hewitt was opposed to the present system of protection and regretted that the pending bill preserved every single feature of that system The measure was simply a proposition of modification and reduction, but the principles of protection were fastened on the country and all that could be hoped for to-day and all that the bill ought to accomplish was to reduce the amount of taxation collected by the government and put into the treasury He argued at length in favor of the pending bill

Symes of Colorado said the president had shown an entire want of comprehension of the whole tariff system when he told the farmer in one paragraph that the protective tariff was wrong and in the next attempted to show the manufacturer that he would be benefited by the placing of raw materials on the free list The president had forgotten or ignored the fact that the placing of raw materials on the free list would ruin the agricultural mining and other industries of the country He argued that it was the capitalist monopolist and importing merchant and those who derived their income from bonds and some other investments who were clamoring for free trade and that it was the employer workingman and those who built the industries of the country who demanded the protective tariff He would make protection of American labor from foreign competition the arch of American institutions He would protect the laboring men of America from the importation and immigration of convict and pauper laborers, as well as from the importation of the products of their work

Funston of Kansas argued in favor of protection

O'Neill of Indiana argued in favor of putting lumber oil and iron on the free list because he thought in those products the country could compete with the world without there being any tariff on them

Thompson of Ohio spoke in opposition to the pending measure The surplus should be devoted to building a navy to restoring our commercial marine to the proud position it once occupied to the development and improvement of internal transportation to the payment of liberal pensions to the old soldiers who have made all the promise of our future possible—and the people will not complain, they will sanction and approve it all

Struble of Iowa said that among other things—some commendable some despicable—done by the present administration at least three could not escape the condemnation of the people The president had first attacked the silver dollar then the greenback and then the protective system under which the government had grown and prospered and by reason of which it had attained financially commercially and intellectually the proud distinction accorded it by the civilized world

The committee then rose On motion of Carey the senate bill granting to Wyoming 640 acres of land on the Fort Sanders military reservation for a fish hatchery and other public purposes, was taken up and passed. Adjourned

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Proposed Change in the Constitution—Important Secret Session

WASHINGTON, May 14—The following bills were reported and placed on the calendar Senate bill to reimburse the state of Nevada for moneys expended and obligations incurred in the suppression of the war of the rebellion and for guarding the overland mail and immigrant route Senate bill authorizing the purchase of the site of the building for the United States supreme court

Stewart introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the constitution so as to reduce from two-thirds to a majority the vote in each house overriding presidential vetoes

Stewart offered a resolution which was adopted calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement as to the existence of any regulation in his department under which lead ores containing gold or silver are admitted free of duty, and if so under what law Also, as to the amount of lead ore and silver ore imported during the past ten months

Hoar from the committee on privileges and elections to which had been referred certain resolutions of the joint convention of the two houses of the Indiana legislature, concerning the election of Turpie as senator made a report and asked to be discharged from further consideration of the resolution and memorials thereby confirming the title of Turpie to his seat

Vest offered a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of five senators to examine fully all questions touching the meat product of the United States

After discussion of some other measures and passage of the house bill enabling executive departments and certain bureaus to participate in the Ohio valley centennial the senate took up the animal industry bill as unfinished business, and then the presiding officer, presumably under order, ordered the galleries cleared and the doors closed and the senate went into executive session and when the doors reopened, adjourned

IN SECRET SESSION

WASHINGTON May 14—The senate spent three hours in secret legislative session discussing the Riddleberger resolution for open consideration of the fisheries treaty and the Hoar resolution for a stenographic report of the debate to be made public at the option of the senate Both were defeated the democrats voting solidly against them and the republicans dividing according to individual preference Consideration of the fisheries treaty was further postponed till next Monday

FOR PENSION ARREARS

Another Way to Wipe Out the Surplus in the Treasury

WASHINGTON May 14—The house committee on invalid pensions has reported a bill proposing to remove the restriction upon payment of arrearages of pensions in the case of claims filed before the passage of the bill.

The bill is a substitute for a number of bills on the same subject It authorizes the secretary of the interior to adjust all pension claims on account of disability from injuries incurred since March 4 1861 filed on and after July 11 1880 and up to the date of the passage of the bill Also directing the secretary to adjudicate all such claims as have been allowed or filed as if they had been filed prior to July 1 1880

The report accompanying the bill says We place this bill upon the ground that it is the only legislation upon the subject now practicable Not that it does full justice It will be borne in mind however that it does not prohibit legislation hereafter that will put all pensioners upon an equality, but on the contrary strengthens their claim to supplementary legislation that will give them arrears We shall be able to submit estimates clearly approximating the cost of this legislation and for the present venture the assertion that it will not exceed $250 000, 000 and suggest to the house in this connection that it affords the very best means of disbursing the present surplus

FULLER'S NOMINATION

It will be Considered by the Senate Committee Next Monday

WASHINGTON, May 14 The senate committee on judiciary did nothing upon the nomination of Melville W Fuller except to postpone action upon it until next Monday The report that it was last week referred to a sub-committee was premature A motion to refer it was made last Monday by Senator Ingalls but a desultory discussion followed during which the hour for the assembling of the senate arrived and the committee adjourned without action some members of the committee being under the impression that it had been referred to a sub committee

THIS YEAR HE WILL NOT FISH

THE SUPREME COURT.

Decisions in Cases That Have Received Great Attention.

FAVORING THE CENTRAL PACIFIC

A Rehearing Denied in the Telephone Case—Court Adjourned for the Term—The Patti Ticket Swindle Case—Etc

WASHINGTON May 14—The supreme court to-day rendered an opinion sustaining the decision of the court below in the case of Plant Mahon appellant vs Abner Justice jailer of Pike county Kentucky This is an application for a writ of habeas corpus arising out of the celebrated Hatfield McCoy vendetta and is brought here on appeal from the circuit court which declined to issue a writ Mahon who is a citizen of West Virginia was indicted in 1882 by the circuit court of Pike county Kentucky on three charges of willful and deliberate murder The governor of West Virginia refused to comply with the requisition of the governor of Kentucky for Mahon's person In January last Phillips as agent for Kentucky and others seized Mahon in West Virginia and forcibly carried him into Kentucky The governor of West Virginia made a formal demand for Mahon's release which was refused and application was then made for a writ of habeas corpus

It was contended on behalf of Mahon that the action of Phillips was a violation of the constitution and without due process of law while counsel for the state of Kentucky maintained that the act of Phillips in seizing Mahon was unauthorized but that the state of Kentucky was fully justified in holding him when found within her borders and that the question how he came there was not one to be considered Any remedy sought to be applied it was asserted, must be brought against Phillips for trespass and not against the state of Kentucky Justice Bradley dissented

THE PATTI TICKET CASE

The court also rendered an opinion in the case of George Benson appellant vs Juan Navarro a Mexican consul-general and the republic of Mexico This is an application for a writ of habeas corpus, brought here by appeal from the circuit court of the southern district of New York, that court having denied application for a writ. This court sustains the decision. This suit is known as the Patti ticket suit, being the case of the City of Mexico

THE TALLY SHEET CASE

The court also rendered an opinion denying an application of Coy and Berthamer for a writ of habeas corpus These cases are better known as the tally sheet election fraud cases and grew out of frauds alleged to have been committed in Marion county Indiana in the election last November Coy and Berthamer were convicted of complicity in the frauds and it was contended on behalf of the prisoners that the federal court had no jurisdiction to try them as the alleged election frauds concerned only the county ticket and did not affect a congressional election opinion by Justice Miller with Justice Field dissenting

SUPREME COURT.

Decisions in Three Cases That Have Attracted Much Attention.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The supreme court rendered a decision in the case of the United States appellant vs McLaughlin et al from the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of California Suit was brought in this case by the government against the Central Pacific Railroad Company and McLaughlin et al as holders of patents for lands lying along the route of railroad between Stockton and Sacramento and claimed to be part of the grant to the railroad company The government claimed that patents were issued for this land as railroad land by a mistake The mistake was that the land was within the exterior boundaries of a Mexican grant known as the Moquelokmas grant which formed the basis of the contest

The railroad company contended that the eastern boundary was only intended to go to the foot hills, which would make the territory described contain nearly twice the amount granted Grants of that kind it was explained of a certain quantity to be located in a larger area are called floating grants

The government contended that the lands within the exterior boundaries of this grant were reserved from sale or other disposition, being under examination in the courts and that the railroad grant did not take effect at any point within the exterior limits of this Mexican grant the railroad having been located across the grant.

It was admitted that this was true with regard to public reservations of lands such as Indian or military reservations and also true with regard to Mexican grants of specific land while they were under examination but the company contended that floating grants were not subject to this, and hence obtained patents to the land in dispute

The court decided that the eastern boundary of the Mexican grant was as the company claimed it to be and therefore most of the lands are outside of its exterior limits, and as to them the patent was valid

Second, that the law of reservation did not apply to floating grants further than to satisfy the quantity granted and therefore the remaining lands in dispute were also free, and the patent was good as to them also

The decree of the court is affirmed and it is further ordered that this decree be entered nunc pro tunc as of October 10 1877

Cases 11 and 12 involved the same points as those set forth in the above, and were decided similar

Justice Miller announced the following order It is now ordered by the court that all cases on the docket not decided and all other business of the term not disposed of by the court be and the same are hereby continued until the next term of court

DECISION IN THE TELEPHONE CASE

The Supreme Court Decides Against the Application for a Rehearing

WASHINGTON D C May 12—The supreme court to-day denied the application for rehearing of the telephone case This application was made by the People's and Overland Telephone Companies who claim that Drawbaugh and not Bell was the first inventor of the telephone

Judge Miller announced the opinion of the court orally He simply said that as none of the three justices who had concurred in the opinion of Chief Justice Waite in upholding the validity of Bell's patent had requested a rehearing and that it was the settled rule of the court not to grant rehearings unless this was done the application must be denied

FOR A PRIVATE LAND CLAIM

The First Patent Sent to California by the Present Administration

WASHINGTON May 14—The commissioner of the general land office to-day by direction of the secretary of the interior transmitted to the surveyor general of California for delivery to confirmees Joseph S Emery Nathan W Spaulding administrator of the estate of Abner Bassett deceased, and Mary Ann Bassett widow patent for the private land claim, known as the ranch San Jose Chiquito The claim is located in Monterey county and has a front on the Pacific ocean of about fifteen miles It embraces an area of about 8180 acres It is the first California private land claim patented during the present administration.

Washington Notes

Nomination John W Browning of Colorado melter of the mint at Denver

A constitutional amendment was offered in the house to-day by Neal of Tennessee proposing to extend the term of office of the president and vice president to six years, and to make the president ineligible for a second term

Bond Purchases

WASHINGTON May 14—The secretary of the treasury to-day accepted $353 000 in bonds Offers amounted to $2 600 000

SAN FRANCISCO WHARFAGE

Its Extent Cost and Income and Other Statistics of Interest.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14—Residents here think San Francisco has shown a fair amount of wharfage for a city of less than forty years growth In round numbers the space used for wharf purposes is sixty acres, linear feet of water front, not including eight ferry slips occupying 1000 feet front, is 45,471 feet or about eight and one sixth miles This includes 6361 feet of seawall, freight transfer slip mail dock under lease, and four small piers for fishermen The ferry slips at the foot of Market street and the one at the foot of Second street are not included in this measurement

To build these wharves cost $1 000 000 This sum includes sheds The income from wharfage collected and for special privileges amounts to $500 000 a year It costs from $125 000 to $150 000 a year for repairing, maintaining and operating the water front, and all in excess of this collected as tolls goes toward building the seawall

Two new wharves are nearing completion, a covered wharf at the foot of Lombard street 540x100 feet, the shed being 520x30 feet and one at the foot of Harrison street, 550x80 feet Five thousand piles are used each year in building and repairing These cost an average of $9 each besides which the cost of driving each pile is from $2 to $20, the latter being for piles from 80 to 90 feet long driven under sheds

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL LINES.

Representatives Now in San Francisco to Attend the Association Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO May 14—The Transcontinental Association which meets at the Palace hotel to-morrow represents nineteen national roads with a combined mileage of 44,456 miles out of 150 000 miles of track in the United States The first Transcontinental Association went to pieces in February, 1880 and was followed by a great cut in freight and passenger rates The first association attempted to pool the business of all the roads Pooling is now unlawful and the association's object is now merely to maintain a standard of rates interchange statistics, and to try to keep peace among the lines by arbitration

ALREADY ON HAND

SAN FRANCISCO May 14—There are gathered here from the general offices of all the transcontinental railway lines officials in the operating service of their roads who have come to attend the meeting of their association which will be called to order by Chairman J S Leeds to-morrow From talks with members already on the ground it is gathered that this meeting will be not altogether a quiet one

The meeting will be executive and continue throughout the week The usual business procedure consists of a general consultation among all the officials as to whether any change is necessary in the general policy of the roads Then the passenger and freight officials separate and discuss matters pertaining to their various departments after which they make a general body for final action The various lines will have from two to four representatives in the meetings.

SUSTAINING THE STATE LAWS.

Fish Are to be Preserved from the Ravages of Chinese Nets

SAN FRANCISCO May 14—In the United States circuit court this morning Judge Sawyer delivered an oral decision sustaining the state laws for the preservation of fish A test case was argued before him some time ago and last July certain Chinamen were detected using a Chinese shrimp net the meshes of which were less than an inch in size, enabling the men to take every small fish in the water In the April term of the circuit court the Chinese through their attorneys claimed that the state law was a violation of the rights of man and discriminated against a class They argued that because these nets were called Chinese shrimp nets it would be a violation of personal liberty of aliens to forbid their use Judge Sawyer briefly disposed of this argument He said the state had undoubtedly a right to protect fish and prescribe the size of the net that should be used Whether the nets were called alien nets or Chinese nets or no nets at all had nothing to do with it If the Chinese would conform to the laws observed by all other fishermen they would not be molested but the judge did not believe in erecting any privileged class white or Chinese because of the naming of a certain sort of net

A NOVEL PERFORMANCE

Pinafore Produced With Real Sailors, Real Water Etc

SAN FRANCISCO May 14—The first performance of the monster Pinafore opera was given at the Mechanics' pavilion this evening The ship upon which the opera was given has a mast that reaches nearly to the roof with a sixty foot yard and full rigging, upon which the crews of the American men of war from Mare island furled sails The vessel is surrounded with huge tanks filled with water and the officers went to and from the Pinafore in boat rowed by sailors The chorus was excellent The orchestra contained forty musicians and the United States military band performed on the ship The opera was given for the benefit of the proposed home for destitute wives mothers sisters and little children of old veterans by the Woman's Relief Corps of the G A R

Important Decisions by the State Supreme Court.

HON. JOHN F. SWIFT AT ASHLAND.

A Heavy Failure at Salem—Dramatic Termination of a Municipal Deadlock at Tacoma—Coast Notes.

SALEM, Or., May 14.—Two important cases, one of them very complicated and interesting, were decided in the supreme court to-day. They were:

S. A. Pursell, appellant, vs. R. W. Deal and A. N. Hamilton, sheriff of Union county, respondents; judgment of the lower court affirmed; opinion by Strahan, J.

Pleading—Construction.—In the construction of pleading, the ordinary rule is that it is to be construed most strongly against the pleader.

Dormant Judgment—Motion for leave to issue execution—If five years are allowed to elapse after entry of judgment, without an execution having been issued thereon, no execution can thereafter issue on such judgment without leave of the court.

Leave to issue execution—motion—summons. To obtain such leave, the party must file his motion, properly verified with the clerk, and cause a summons to be served on the judgment debtor in like manner and with like effect as in an action at law.

Summons—publication. If a cause of action exist against defendant, and the other requisite facts mentioned in section 56 of the code, the court may order a summons to be served by publication.

Cause of action. The right of a judgment creditor to obtain leave of court to issue an execution on a judgment that has become dormant by lapse of time is "a cause of action" within the meaning of those terms used in section 56 of the code.

Party—action. Relating to real property in this state. A proceeding to obtain leave to issue execution upon a dormant judgment is not "an action relating to real property in this state" within the meaning of section 56 of the code.

Vacating sheriff's returns. If the court below acted irregularly in vacating the sheriff's returns on an execution, it furnishes no ground of complaint to the plaintiff, unless he can show that he was injured in some way.

THE HEMBREE WILL CASE.

Henry C. Shadden, appellant, vs. I. N. Hembree, respondent; appeal from Lane county; Malinda Parris, appellant, vs. I. N. Hembree, respondent; appeal from Lane county; and I. N. Hembree, appellant, vs. Henry C. Shadden, respondent; appeal from Yamhill county. The two Lane county cases reversed, and the Yamhill county case affirmed; opinion by Thayer, J.

In the construction of a will, under the laws of the state, due regard must be had to the directions contained therein and to the true intent and meaning of a testator in all matters relating thereto; and when a clause in the will provides in general terms for the limitation over the devise to a second taker, upon a contingent event, the intention of the testator, as indicated by all parts of the will, must determine when and under what particular circumstances the contingency arises. When H. made his will, in which he devised his farm to his son, and certain town property to his wife, and directed that his wife should have the use, control and management of all his property, both real and personal, during her natural life, or so long as she remained his widow, and then it should go to the son, except as herein provided, and by a subsequent clause in the will it was directed that in the event his wife and son should die before the son became 21 years of age, then that his real estate should descend to his nephew, to whom he devised in the event mentioned, and that his personal property should be divided among the brothers and sisters of himself and wife—held, that the will created a life estate in the wife, remainder in the son, and a limitation in the nature of an executory devise in the nephew; and that upon the happening of the contingency upon which the limitation over to the nephew was made to depend, the title to the real property vested in him, or in his heirs in case of death. Held, further, however, that the clause in the will creating the contingency must be construed with reference to other parts of the will, and if it appears therefrom that it was the intention of the testator that the limitation over was only to take effect in the event of the wife and son dying within the time referred to, and of the nephew being alive, to take the property at the time of the death of the wife, the will should be construed in accordance with such intention; and when it appeared that the nephew died first the wife subsequently, and that the son survived the latter, held that the contingency upon which the limitation depended did not happen; the son took the real property in fee, and upon his death it descended to his heirs under the laws of the state governing descents, and that the heirs of the nephew had no claim upon it. Held also that if the limitation even had been by way of contingent remainder, instead of executory devise, the result would have been the same; that they both depended upon a contingency which must occur before they can take effect, and that when the furnishing of the contingency becomes impossible, the estate in the first takes under, and the will becomes absolute. Held, also, under the particular circumstances of these cases, that the son having died leaving no child, wife, father, brother, sister or mother, or issue of any brother or sister, the estate descended to his grandmother on his father's side, and his grandfather and grandmother on his mother's side in equal shares to each.

J. M. Powell et al., respondent, vs. Wm. Heister, appellant, appeal from Wasco county; argued and submitted. A. S. Bennett, attorney for respondent, E. B. Dufur, attorney for appellant.

SALEM NEWS ITEMS.

A Heavy Failure—A Probably Fatal Accident—Etc.

SALEM, May 14.—Adolph Mayer, general merchandise dealer, made an assignment to-day for the benefit of his creditors. His creditors are mostly San Francisco merchants, and several are in Portland. The latter are Fleischner, Mayer & Co., $956 62; Neustadter Bros., $306 52; E. Bachman & Co., $20 91. The heaviest creditor is Rosenbaum & Co., San Francisco, $3635 33; Murphy, Grant & Co., $2379 93; Bachman Bros., $2006 46. The total liabilities are $23,728 56; assets, $15,122 74.

Saturday night near Silverton a young man named Bryan, while riding a horse to pasture was thrown and sustained such severe injuries about the head and breast by concussion with the ground, and from the horse's hoofs that his death is expected at any moment. Bryan was a cripple.

J. O. Brunt, arrested for selling liquor to Indians, to-day appeared before U. S. Commissioner Walton, pleaded guilty, and will be taken to Portland for sentence to-morrow.

HON. JOHN F. SWIFT.

He Addresses a Large Audience at Ashland—The Tariff and Other Questions.

ASHLAND, Ogn., May 14.—Hon. John F. Swift, of California, addressed a large audience in Ashland to-night, and republicans here are enthusiastic over his championship of the cause of their party. Col. John P. Irish spoke here last Saturday night, and he came so weighted with reputation that a certain sense of disappointment was to be expected, and was certainly experienced by the democrats who heard his first speech in the Oregon campaign. John F. Swift has not been heralded with so heavy a blast of trumpets, but he made a far more effective speech in Ashland than did Col. Irish. Both Irish and Swift spoke in only the most courteous and friendly terms of each other, and their campaign in this state will be above all bitter personalities, if it continue as it has begun.

Mr. Swift stated that he came to Oregon at the request of the republican state central committee, and would not have done so, in poor health as he is, had this campaign been any ordinary struggle for the emoluments and honors of local offices; but it is a skirmish, the driving in of the picket lines preliminary to a contest fraught with the gravest issues to the whole Union; a contest in which every honest and patriotic republican should follow the call of duty, even though the service may cost him a sacrifice.

The line of argument chosen by Mr. Swift was a happy one, and his speech was closely followed throughout, and was received with frequent and hearty applause. He portrayed Cleveland's last annual message in the light of a half disguised attack upon the protective system of our government, the first move in the line of the free trade advance, and declared that this proposition to destroy the protective system is without the shadow of an excuse or justification at this time. If we were in a period of depression, of grinding hard times, on the eve of financial disaster as a nation, such as was expected and predicted by the members of congress, who left their seats in congress early in 1861, and those other members who opposed the imposition of the tariff as a war measure shortly afterward, then we might be justified in trying experiments in the line proposed by Cleveland. As it is, the country is well; was never better. There is no more prosperous country on the face of the globe to-day, and we do not need the treatment which the democratic president and his coadjutors propose to administer.

The tariff and labor questions were argued in plain terms, in a commonplace manner, and by a logical grouping of undisputed facts, without wearying the audience with long tales of statistics, or an incomprehensible and suspicious array of figures; and it may be said confidently that the people of Oregon who have the opportunity to listen to Mr. Swift will on every occasion hear him with interest from the beginning to the end of his speech. They will have an opportunity to clear their minds of many of the sophistries and much of the rubbish deposited there by the special pleaders for the Cleveland plan of "reforming the revenue" and readjusting the tariff, and they will hear a more intelligent and more intelligible statement of the issues of the campaign than is furnished by any speaker who punishes his audience by the hour with figures done up to order for the special use of campaign orators, and compiled upon a rule which works both ways to the entire satisfaction of the operators.

The best of feeling and encouragement prevail among republicans here who heard both Irish and Swift. Mr. Swift speaks next at Grant's Pass, to-morrow night.

THE DEADLOCK BROKEN.

Dramatic Termination of the Tacoma Municipal Contest.

TACOMA, W. T., May 14.—After four hundred ballots had been taken in the attempt to elect a city clerk, J. D. Coughran, the newly elected republican member from the second ward, went over to the democrats to-night, and so broke the deadlock and elected William J. Meade, the present incumbent. Col. J. M. Stole, republican from the Fourth ward, after scoring Coughran, voted for Jeff Davis and then tendered his resignation and left the council chamber, declaring he would not sit in a body of mugwumps. The present council was elected after a hard fight on straight party lies, and hence Stole's indignation.

Hugh Farrell, the night watch, who let the murderer Martin get away, was arrested to-day and held for court under $500 bond.

Paul Schulze, who returned from the East Saturday, was banqueted to-night at the Tacoma hotel.

Fuller, murderer of Bishop Seghers, was brought to the penitentiary at McNeil's Island by Marshal Atkins of Alaska. With him are three Indians, one of whom is sentenced to ninety-nine years for murdering his wife.

THE LEGISLATIVE MUDDLE.

A Member of the House Proposes to Clear Matters by Resigning.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., May 14.—Eugene Fellows, one of the members of the house from this district in the last legislature, said to-day that in view of the question raised as to the next meeting of the legislature, he intended resigning, and thought all the republican members should do the same. He said no member of the last legislature ever dreamed that the passage of the bill changing the time of meeting of the legislature would result, as is now claimed, in the members going back for a second session. He further said that the members owed it to themselves to resign and thus prevent any result not contemplated by any one when the legislature adjourned. He did not propose to be placed in a false position.

This would precipitate an expression of opinion on the part of Gov. Semple, for, should he issue an order for a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fellows, it would be an admission that a vacancy existed, and that would be deciding the whole question. Much interest is manifested here in the matter, and the action of Fellows is approved by the party.

THE SONORA TRAIN ROBBERS.

Mexican Troops on Hand to Execute the Death Sentence.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 14.—It was the intention to give Roing and Taylor, the supposed Agua Zarca train robbers, a hearing this afternoon, but the district attorney telegraphed that the magistrate has no jurisdiction, as the crime was committed in Mexico. It was expected that pretty strong evidence against both parties, and probably others, would be adduced in the examination as evidence of a circumstantial nature is strong against both Taylor and Roling. The Mexican authorities last night arrested two men, who, they are pretty sure, are robbers. A large detachment of Mexican troops arrived this morning from Guaymas. The troops will be used to execute the death sentence, should any of the prisoners now in jail be proved to have been in the robbery.

LARGE SAWMILL BURNED.

Probably the Cowardly Work of Anti-Chinese Agitators.

TRUCKEE, May 14.—The sawmill of the Pacific Lumber & Wood Company, at Clinton, owned by Mrs. M. E. Burkhalter, burned last night. The loss is estimated at $40,000; partly insured. Two Chinese cooks were employed at the mill last week, being the first Chinaman employed in this vicinity for three years. Several white men quit work on this account and much bitter feeling prevailed in the community. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

OTHER COAST DISPATCHES.

Nevada Republicans.

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., May 14.—Many delegates and candidates are here to attend the republican state convention to-morrow.

Senator Stewart will be elected delegate to the national convention, if not indorsed for president. To-night Bartine of Carson, who came here as a candidate for supreme judge, is said to have the best show for congress. The fight for judge has narrowed to Leonard, the incumbent, and Murphy, formerly attorney-general. The delegates say that Woodburn has telegraphed that he would accept renomination to congress, but they are not disposed to humor him.

Rowdyism at Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, W. T., May 14.—Yesterday Charles Lynch and several other men went to Poland's saloon and demanded admission. A Chinaman was sweeping out and he refused. The men then broke open the door and brutally assaulted the Chinaman. Lynch has skipped the country. Jack Massom, Bob Landers and T. E. Logan were arrested and tried this afternoon, but swore all the blame on Lynch and were discharged. Lynch and Massom are young men, and belong to two of the best families in town. Logan is the man that married "Minnie Myrtle," divorced wife of the poet, Joaquin Miller.

News Items from Victoria.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 14.—Rev. Father Lemuans has been appointed bishop of Vancouver Island, vice the late Archbishop Seghers.

The libel case of Hon. Robert Dunsmuir, president of the provincial cabinet, against the News-Advertiser of Vancouver, came on to-day. The proprietors of the paper made ample apology for the libel, asserting its untruthfulness and withdrawing all comments. In the course of his remarks the chief justice made rabid reference to the newspaper profession generally. The remarks are of such an extreme character as to cause general adverse comment.

His First Choice is Gresham.

ALBANY, Or., May 14.—J. W. Cusick, delegate to the republican national convention at Chicago, left this city to-day for the East, where he will spend a month before proceeding to Chicago. He says his first choice is for Gresham.

Hon. Lish Applegate addressed a large audience in this city to-night in behalf of the republicans.

Booty Abandoned by Robbers.

ELKO, Nev., May 14.—The store of Hull, Wells, Fargo's agent and county treasurer, was broken into last night. A box containing $3000 in silver and $1000 in gold coin was removed and carted on a wheelbarrow to the foot of a hill a quarter of a mile distant, where it was found intact this morning.

A REMARKABLE WRECK.

Two Trains Demolished, a Town Ruined, and Lives Lost.

A CAR OF GIANT POWDER EXPLODES.

People Killed by Flying Debris, While Standing in their Doorways and Viewing the Burning Trains—The Death List.

DENVER, Col., May 14.—News reached here this morning that the Thunderbolt train of the Santa Fe railroad collided with a freight train near Fountain at 6 o'clock this morning. A car of powder in a freight train exploded, completely wrecking both trains and instantly killing several persons and wounding many more. No particulars yet.

Later advices via Chicago from Fountain, the scene of the Santa Fe railway accident, state that the "Thunderbolt" express was standing on the track in front of the station, when the caboose and some cars, which got loose in some way, ran down from the side track and struck the train with terrific force. A car loaded with naptha exploded and set the train on fire. While the men were endeavoring to save the cars and depot, another containing powder caught on fire and exploded, completely demolishing the depot, several dwellings and a number of cars. The dwelling and depot were consumed. One woman and two men were killed by the explosion, and some twelve or fifteen persons were wounded, none very seriously. There is a hole in the ground where the car stood about thirty feet in diameter and fifteen feet deep. Two cars were burned, and sixteen, together with the locomotive, were more or less wrecked. It is supposed that tramps let off the brakes from the cars.

WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED.

Graphic Particulars of a Most Remarkable Disaster.

FOUNTAIN, Col., May 14.—A horrible railway casualty occurred here at 2:45 this morning. At 2:41 the northbound "Thunderbolt" stopped at the station for orders. It had hardly come to a standstill when a caboose with four loaded freight cars, which had broken away from the through freight at Colorado Springs, came dashing down the long grade at lightning speed, crashing into the express and piling the caboose and the first car in ruins on top of the engine and baggage car.

The car next to the caboose was a huge tank of naptha, which being wrecked, scattered oil over the depot, cars and adjoining buildings, caught fire, and in an instant everything was in a sheet of flames.

The engineer and fireman escaped somewhat injured. The Pullman and the two day coaches of the passengers were hastily detatched from the burning baggage car, and ran down the track to a safe distance from the fire, which now enveloped the depot, and was rapidly approaching the last car of the runaway freight.

When an alarm was given that this car was loaded with powder, and for all to run for their lives, all who heard the warning attempted to obey, but had gone but a short distance when the 17,000 pounds of giant powder with which the car was loaded exploded, shaking the earth as though by an earthquake.

Twenty houses in the city were almost totally destroyed, together with a new Baptist church, which was blown from the foundation. Men and women were knocked senseless, and pieces of broken rails, car wheels and timbers were carried with terrific force for half a mile. A number of freight cars standing on a side track were blown to atoms.

The passengers in the Thunderbolt were severely shaken up, and a number were cut by pieces of glass from the windows, but none were seriously injured.

The yard of the Newton Lumber Company took fire and was completely destroyed.

People standing a quarter of a mile from the explosion were hit by flying fragments and badly wounded.

THE DEAD AND INJURED.

The dead are: C. F. Smith, manager of the Newton Lumber Company. He was trying to extinguish the flames of the depot when the explosion occurred, and was badly wounded and died in an hour. A piece of iron was blown through his body, making a hole two inches in diameter.

The burned remains of an unknown man were found underneath the engine after the fire was extinguished.

Lawrence Weichart, a German carpenter, while assisting to put out the fire in the lumber yard, was struck on the head by a flying timber, which caused concussion of the brain and he died in a short time.

Mrs. W. Edridge, while standing 600 yards from the track, was struck on the head by a flying bolt, and died in two hours.

H. Hutchins, a merchant 60 years of age standing in his door some distance away, was struck by a bar of iron and died this afternoon.

The wounded number about thirty, none of whom will die although painfully injured.

The loss to the town, which is completely ruined, is estimated at $60,000, while the amount of the railroad company is variously estimated at $75,000 to $100,000. All the wounded are residents of this place, except W. Knight, of St. Louis, and J. C. Munn, of Tombstone, who had their faces badly cut.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Deep Interest Taken in the Election of New Bishops.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Bishop Morrill presided at to-day's session of the Methodist conference.

The committee on Episcopacy was asked to report Tuesday upon the resolution to elect bishops for a term of eight years. At present the bishops hold office for life as a matter of usage.

A resolution was offered to the effect that the conference express the opinion that the Blair educational bill was a good measure. The resolution was referred to the committee on state and church.

Rev. John Bailey, of the Drew Theological Seminary, read his report as fraternal delegate to the Methodist church south, and Rev. Isaac W. Joyce, of Cincinnati, read his report as fraternal delegate to the general conference of the Methodist church in Canada.

A resolution was introduced asking the committee on Episcopacy to provide for the balloting for bishops, so that all the candidates shall be balloted for at one time.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley offered a substitute to the effect that the vote be taken by orders. That lay delegates and ministerial delegates vote separately. This caused a general and rather excited discussion. It was said there was lobbying going on for candidates, but the members denied it. Finally, in order to end the discussion, ex-Gov. Cumback, of Indiana, moved the previous question. A number of amendments were offered. When a vote was taken everything was voted down and the discussion closed.

The Southern California conference offered a resolution that German missions on the Pacific coast be organized into an annual conference; referred to the committee on boundaries. Adjourned.

ELECTIONEERING.

NEW YORK, May 14.—There is much electioneering in the Methodist conference on the question of the election of bishops. In addition to the filling of vacancies caused by death, the question of increasing the number of bishops will attract a great deal of attention. One delegate said the number of bishops in the Methodist church was only eleven, while the church membership was 4,000,000. In the Protestant Episcopal church there were seventy bishops to a membership or 400,000. The probability is that the number of bishops will be largely increased. Considerable time was taken up to-day in debating the manner of balloting for bishops. Considerable discussion was indulged in, without a result being reached.

BASEBALL.

A Disagreeable Mixture of Weather, Cold, Snow and Rain.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Anson's Colts won to-day's game by superior playing all round. Krock's pitching was a mystery to New York, except when Roger Conner, in the first inning made a home-run drive over the wall. Score, Chicago 5, New York 1.

DETROIT, May 14.—No game; rain.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—The weather was miserably cold to-day, and good playing was difficult. Henderson's wild pitching and some villainous fielding lost the game for the home team. Score, Pittsburg 5, Boston 6.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—Few people attended the game to-day. The weather was very cold and damp. Healy's pitching was a feature of the game, and [illegible], together with some good hitting. Score, Indianapolis 7, Washington 1.

ASSOCIATION GAMES.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—St. Louis 6, Kansas City 4.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The Athletic-Baltimore game was called at the commencement of the fifth inning, on account of rain. Score, 4 to 7 in favor of Baltimore.

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Cleveland 3, Brooklyn 7. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of snow and darkness.

STILL RISING.

Alexandria Five Feet Under Water—St. Louis Menaced.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—The river is steadily rising here, and the inhabitants on the American bottoms are moving all of their portable property back to the high land. Reports from the north are alarming, and if the levee on Madison lake breaks loose the damage will be in the millions. The regular exodus has taken place from the Sny bottom.

The entire town of Alexandria, Missouri, is inundated with five feet of water and the damage is very heavy. The people are being taken as fast as possible to the high lands, a couple of miles back of town. The Sny levee is now being patrolled for miles by sentinels, whose duty it is to summon assistance when any weak spot is observed.

FROM THE BUFFALO HUNTERS.

Arrival of the First Carrier Pigeon With Favorable News.

GARDEN CITY, Kan., May 14.—A carrier pigeon bringing the first news from the buffalo hunting expedition of the Chicago Times, has arrived here from headquarters, on the upper Canadian river in Northwestern Texas, 185 miles distant. Two small groups of bison had been sighted, and it was evident that the hunters were close upon the trail of the main herd. Considerable sport was had in lassoing three buffalo calves as they came on with the herd.

CALIFORNIA.

The Democratic State Convention.

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—The hotel lobbies are crowded to-night with delegates to the democratic state convention, and politicians from all parts of the state. Each train to-day brought its load, and the visitors were met at the depot and assigned to quarters in various hotels. The finishing touches were put this afternoon to the decorations, and everything was put in order for the opening to-morrow. The immense auditorium has been arranged after the manner of the dress circle and parquette of an opera house, the latter being provided with chairs for the delegates, and the former with benches for the visitors.

Above the main entrance are two handsome flags, surmounted by a large banner, on which is inscribed:

> "We'd all be glad to match again
> Our gamey Cleveland with Jim Blaine.
> We downed them once with gallant Grover,
> And ready stand to do it over."

Burned at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—It is announced by cable from London that the German bark Marie Riebeck, from Genoa to this city, was burned at sea, off Bahia, Brazil. The crew are safe. The vessel was valued at $15,000 and the cargo at $100,000.

The Marie Riebeck left Genoa sixty-three days ago, with a valuable and extensive general cargo, valued at about $160,000. The principal articles on her were marble, oil and sulphuric acid. How the fire originated is not known, but the loss was fully covered by insurance, part of it placed in local companies. The bark was a vessel of 504 tons.

Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Eugene J. Levitt hired a room in a lodging house last night, and was found dead this morning, lying upon the bed. At his side were two bottles, one containing chloroform and the other laudanum. In a letter found in the room, addressed to Mr. Wormser, of this city, he requested that the news be broken to "L. L.," of Chicago, who is supposed to be his father. Deceased has been engaged in business in Dakota, and only recently came here. Despondency is supposed to have been the cause of the deed.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The general commission firm of A. Lusk desire it to be known that they have no connection with J. Lusk & Co., and had nothing to do with the failure of the other house, and are not affected by it in any manner.

The Young Men's Christian Association building fund in Oakland has now reached $36,500. It was originally intended to commence building when the sum reached $50,000, but, owing to the success, the cost ultimately will be $75,000.

Another Reduction in Sugar.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The California Refinery Company cut quotations one-eighth of a cent a pound on white sugars, and one-fourth of a cent on yellows. The American Company to-day made a further reduction of one-eighth of a cent all round, which was met by the California Company. At present the refineries quote white sugars at 6 cents a pound and yellows proportionately less. The market is weak, and further reductions are considered certain.

Again in Hot Water.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The International company of Mexico is again in hot water. Closely following the revoke of its grant by the Mexican government, the steamship Montserrat was assessed $30,000 in port charges by the collector of customs at San Diego. The Montserrat avoided San Diego after that, but now she is in the hands of the Mexican authorities at Ensenada, and her release seems improbable.

Very Poor Marksmen.

MARYSVILLE, May 14.—P. D. Gardemeyer, a real estate speculator of Sutter City, and a man named McNabb fired seven shots at each other at that place this morning, at twenty-five feet range, without any of the bullets taking effect. McNabb threatened Gardemeyer because he believed the latter was instrumental in having his son arrested for selling liquor without license. No arrests were made.

One Chinaman Kills Another.

PASADENA, May 14.—Ah Quay, a Chinese laborer at J. W. Hugo's home, two miles north of Pasadena, was shot and instantly killed by Tiam Choo, at 11 o'clock last night. There was no provocation. Tiam claims that Quay entered his bedroom, and thinking he was a bad man breaking in, shot him. The murderer is now in jail. He made no attempt to escape.

Arrival of Mrs. Langtry.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Mrs. Langtry arrived this morning from Los Angeles. She did not go to a hotel, but drove directly to her residence, on Twenty-first street, which she bought while in San Francisco last June. She has been keeping up the establishment ever since her departure, and will utilize it as her headquarters while in California this summer.

Death of a Boston Capitalist.

SAN DIEGO, May 14.—A. B. Lowrie, of the wholesale house of McIntyre & Lowrie, of Boston, Mass., and one of the heaviest stockholders in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad; also president of the San Diego Land & Town Company, died at National City, this county, to-day. His remains were taken to Boston to-night.

Sunday Excursions.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The railroad lines are discussing the advisability of Sunday excursions next season. They are unanimous in the verdict that there is no profit in them, and that they have a bad moral effect.

The Damaged Steamer.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The Queen of the Pacific was taken to the Union Iron Works to-day. She will be docked and given a thorough overhauling.

Fatally Injured.

VISALIA, May 14.—Frank O'Neil, aged 30, was run over this morning by a wagon near Visalia. He was brought here, and died this afternoon.

It's Always the Way.

"Didn't I tell you so?" said a gentleman to an acquaintance whom he chanced to meet on the street; "it's always the way." "What's always the way?" inquired a mutual friend of the two men who happened along just then. "Why, just this," replied the first speaker: "you see Smith, here, the last time I met him, he had one of the worst coughs you ever heard. He complained of a loss of appetite, of night-sweats, of low spirits and other unmistakable premonitory symptoms of consumption. I told him to get a supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at once. He did so, and look at him now! Did you ever see a healthier looking man?" The 'Discovery' has snatched thousands from consumptive graves. [illegible] Smith. It's always the way."

THE KENTUCKY DERBY.

Macbeth Wins with Ease, Defeating the Favorite.

ODDS OF EIGHT TO ONE GIVEN.

A Stirring Race, by which Chicago Draws Many Ducats from the Kentucky Boys—A Raw Day, but a Vast Crowd.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—Indications this morning are that the following horses will compete for the Kentucky Derby, which will be run between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon: Gallifet and Alexandria, of the Melbourne stables, The Chevalier, Macbeth, White Sicol, Zeb Ward and Autocrat. As stated last night, Prince Charlie, the Pacific Coast representative, pulled up lame in his work, and this morning he was scratched.

The following was the average pool this morning: Melbourne stakes, Gallifet and Alexandria, $50; The Chevalier, $22; Macbeth, $16; White, $9; Autocrat, Long Roll and Zeb Ward in the field, $17.

A chilling northwest wind is blowing, and the weather is disagreeable, but the probabilities are that the dusty tract will be a trifle slow. Already the grounds are thronged by a shivering mass of admirers of the thoroughbreds. The city is crowded with strangers, and the only topic is the Derby.

Gallifet's owner, W. S. Barns, regards his horse as a sure winner. He has money on his colt Alexandria, in the books at $100 to $1, and it is understood that if he is good enough, the big chestnut will be allowed to head his stable companion.

Long Roll may start, but it is doubtful.

There is much uncertainty about the jockeys that will ride in the Derby. George Corrington will ride Macbeth. I. H. Lewis is expected to ride Chevalier, and Winkle will probably mount White. It was said last night that the Melbourne stable would have Garrison here to ride Gallifet, but it is more probable that McCarthy will pilot the favorite, with a lesser star on Alexandria, perhaps Barnes.

THE FAVORITE BEATEN.

A Graphic Report of the Great Victory of Macbeth.

LOUISVILLE, May 14.—Another Kentucky Derby has been run, another favorite beaten, and another great thoroughbred, crowned with the laurel wreath of victory, leaps into fame, and brings his owner a fortune. Macbeth Second, the great dark son of Macduff, dam Agnes, belonging to the well-known Chicago stable of Hankins, is the equine hero in Kentucky to-night, and though the choice of the sons of the Blue Grass was the fine-looking chestnut son of Falsetto, Gallifet, they tip their glasses to the Chicago winner, with the plaudit that it was well and nobly won.

The first day of the Louisville spring meeting was cold, threatening and disagreeable, but the chilling Western wind did not prevent the attendance of an immense throng at Churchill downs. If anything, the crowd was larger than last year, and when the sun shone out, shortly after the first race, its beams fell on a mass of humanity who filled the grand stand, the lawn, betting booths, field and every spot from which a sight of the track was obtainable. Vehicles of every degree and description, the tops covered with black forms, filled the free Derby field, and the fence along the track for a quarter of a mile on either side of the timers' stand was surged against by a pushing mob.

The track was about as fast as it ever is, being considered by the trainers as a second or two slow.

The judges were Gen. James F. Robinson, Col. C. F. Clay and Col. Lew Clark. Starter, James Caldwell.

SUMMARY OF THE RACES.

Owing to a mistake the first race had to be run over. It was first won by Liberty, the favorite, Madstone second, Santa Cruz third. After they got off the second time, Madstone won, Santa Cruz second, Liberty third; time, 1:02¾.

Club Purse, one and one-sixteenth miles—Terra Cotta won, Barrister second, Jacobin third; time, 1:50.

Kentucky Derby, $2500 added, $500 to second, $200 to third. Starters—Alexandria, 118, Jones; Autocrat, 118, Hamilton; Col. Zeb Ward, 118, Blaylock; Gallifet, 118, McCarthy; Macbeth, 115, Covington; The Chevalier, 118, Lewis; White, 118, Withers. Auction—Melbourne stables $50, The Chevalier $27, Macbeth $11, White $8, Field $11. Books: Melbourne stables four to five. The Chevalier three to one, Autocrat twelve to one, White six to one, Macbeth nine to one, Zeb Ward ten to one. Macbeth won handily by a length, Gallifet second, two lengths in front of White third, the other horses strung out. Time 2:38¼.

Selling, three-fourths mile heats—Persimmons won the first heat, Lela May second, Lida L. third; time 1:15¾. Second heat—Persimmons won again, Lela May second, Lida L. third; time 1:16.

HOW THE DERBY WAS RUN.

The third race was the great one of the day and the meeting. Gallifet and Alexandria, composing the Melbourne stable entry, sold big favorite, and a lot of good Kentucky shekels went on odds of four to five. Chevalier was next in favor at three to one, the odds against the others being about twelve to one. White, six to one; Macbeth, eight to one; Zeb. Ward, ten to one. Long Roll, the Sharper entry, was scratched an hour before the race.

Gallifet and Alexandria were first to show on the track, and they were greeted with cheers as they swung by the stand in a half mile spin together.

The Chevalier, a magnificent looking black colt, received an ovation as he went loping past the stand, indicating what was known to be a fact, that his backers were numerous and enthusiastic.

White received some recognition, but Macbeth comparatively little.

Zeb Ward and Autocrat were comparatively admired by those who are fond of toying with short ones.

AWAY THEY GO.

After one false start, Mr. Clowell got them off up in the chute in great style, and the fun began. Chevalier led away, with Autocrat and Gallifet close up, White third and the others not far off. Into the stretch they swerved, out of the unpopular chute, Col. Zeb Ward holding the front for what proved to be only short-lived glory, Alexandria second, White third, Chevalier fourth, Gallifet fifth, Autocrat sixth and Macbeth last. Covington, on the winner of the Gayosa hotel stakes at Memphis, and other leading Southern events, was playing admirably a waiting game, which he kept up, and which McCarty, on Gallifet, had better adhered to, might have led to a more interesting finish.

Passing the grand stand Alexandria moved to the fore, to the music of thousands of throats. There his stable companion was second, Chevalier third, and White, Macbeth, Ward and Autocrat back in a bunch.

Rounding the turn in the back stretch, Gallifet's jockey seemed to become impatient and let the chestnut have his head, running first by a length almost the entire length to the next turn, Chevalier second and Macbeth third. Ward had dropped way back, and Alexandria and Autocrat also appeared to weary of the rapid pace set by the fleet son of Falsetto.

AN EASY WINNER.

As they approached the turn, Covington was seen to give Macbeth more head, and the colt answered like the staying one he proved himself to be. By the time the head of the long home run was reached he had collared Gallifet, and was running easy. McCarty began to use the lash on the favorite, but at the eighth pole it was evident to all that it was no use. Macbeth was running easy, with head up, and without the least bit of urging. Gallifet was working hard, and as Macbeth passed under the wire a length in front of him, he looked severely punished and ready to quit. White was third, two lengths behind, Alexandria a bad fourth, Chevalier fifth, Autocrat sixth and Ward seventh and last.

Time, 2:38¼, and compares favorably with that made in former Derbys.

Macbeth won in a gallop, and seemed ready to go another quarter.

It was stated after the race that the Chicago stable had certainly won $70,000 on Macbeth, if not more. That the strapping big dark colt will be heard from again is assured by this performance, and as indicated by his first-class running in the South. Many now think he was not allowed to win at Nashville and Lexington, as he might have, in order to secure big odds that were to be had to-day—eight to one.

Pacific Coast Products.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Money is now extremely abundant, and the treasury policy practically insures a continuance of low rates. Outside markets are complaining of dull times. There are few Pacific coast goods to handle at this season. New honey is seeking a place, but I hear of no settled transactions.

There is a moderate business in hides. California has a small showing in the sales. They bring 16 cents, a pretty full price.

In hops the only movement of account is in cheap grades.

Salmon has not been mentioned commercially during the past week.

THE SUGAR TRUST.

An Investigation Begun by the Attorney-General of New York.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The attorney-general to-day began an investigation of the sugar trust, on a petition signed by Hugh J. Grant, Richard Crocker and Thomas F. Gilroy, whose complaint against the sugar trust has already been made public. They claim it is illegal for a number of reasons. Defendant's counsel declared that complainants were well known politicians, who had introduced a bill in the state legislature making it a crime to combine for the purpose of fixing the prices of commodities; that this bill said nothing about a combination to fix the price of labor, and this movement appeared to be for the purpose of arraying labor against capital. It was wholly for political effect. It was unfair and unjust to subject sugar refiners to these annoyances to serve some one political end. The attorney-general will make known his decision as to whether or not he will proceed against the trust in about two weeks.

THE OIL FIRE.

The Tanks Burst and Send Out a River of Fire.

OIL CITY, Pa., May 14.—The oil fire is now believed to be under control. The great overflow which has been watched with so much terror occurred shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. The tank vomited its flames and contents, and huge islands of burning oil, some of them a hundred feet in diameter, flowed down the creeks. Booms proved useless and the fierce mass of fire swept on, burning several dwellings, the Western New York and Pennsylvanian railroad bridge and a large barrel factory. The loss is estimated at $250,000. Very little sleep was had in the city last night, as it was feared the whole town would be destroyed.

The fire has burned itself out and all danger is passed. First reports were greatly exaggerated and the loss will not exceed $100,000.

WENT FISHING WITH DYNAMITE.

One Man Fatally and the Other Dangerously Injured.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 14.—Frank Alkire and Edward Foster, well-known young farmers living in the northern part of this county, went fishing with dynamite cartridges Saturday night, at the mouth of the Tippecanoe river. While each held a cartridge in the right hand, Foster lit his, and both exploded. Foster's right hand was torn off, and an eye put out. Alkire's right arm was carried away and both eyes were blinded. Both were severely burned. Alkire is unconscious and cannot live.

Cremated.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The cremation of A. B. Simonds, a well-known wealthy business man, occurred at Fresh Pond this morning. He had a horror of the conventional pomp of funerals, and stipulated that when he died no crape should be hung on his door, no formal sermon preached, no flowers be strewn over his coffin, and that the expenses of the funeral must not exceed $100. He imposed a penalty on anyone who should disobey this injunction, and ordered his body cremated. These provisions were faithfully carried out.

The National Labor Convention.

CINCINNATI, May 14.—Delegates to the two national conventions—union labor and united labor—are coming in rapidly. The union labor convention will meet at noon to-morrow at the Odeon, and the united labor at the same time at the Grand opera house. Jesse Harper, the most prominent man in the union labor party, is here. Dr. McGlynn is among the foremost of the united labor party's leaders on the ground.

The Official Labor Organ.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The Journal of United Labor, the official organ of the Knights of Labor, has been placed in charge of A. M. Deway, publisher of the Labor Journal, at Detroit. The paper never has been a financial success, although it has had a large circulation.

The Tennessee Contest.

NASHVILLE, May 14.—The democratic state convention met at noon and proceeded to ballot for candidate for governor. The thirty-first ballot resulted: Taylor 727, Trousdale 489, McConnell 117; necessary to a choice, 880.

Cleveland Runs New York.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Most of the delegates to the democratic convention in this city to-morrow have arrived. They unanimously favor Cleveland's re-nomination. The proceedings will be entirely harmonious.

A Day's Immigration.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The number of immigrants landed to-day was 3413.

OVER A MINING DITCH.

In the case of Gest vs. Packwood in the United States circuit court yesterday, the court overruled the demurrer of the defendant Grover to the cross bill of Abel, on the ground that the two notes, of which he was the alleged owner, were by the contract of May, 1874, between Carter and Packwood on the one hand and Rice on the other, secured by a lien on the net proceeds of the El Dorado ditch and mining lands thereto belonging, and also disallowed the exceptions for impertinence of Packwood to said cross bill.

In the matter excepted to Packwood set up and claimed that he was in possession of the property, under the contract of May, 1874, as trustee and not merely as lessee, and therefore he had a first lien upon the property for a large sum of money, many thousands of dollars, which he alleged he had expended in the improvement and maintenance of the property since 1874, beyond the receipts derived from the same.

The court said it was of the impression that Packwood was in possession under the contract of May 1874, as lessee and not as trustee, and therefore he had no lien upon the property for any sum of money which he may have expended for its improvement or maintenance. But the court said this matter was not clearly impertinent, and the defendant had a right to set it up in his answer and to have the benefit of it in the judgment of the court here on an appeal, and therefore the exceptions for impertinence must be disallowed.

There was also an application on the part of Grover to be allowed to answer the original bill in this case, after the plea made by him that he was a bona fine purchaser for a valuable consideration had been overruled. The court directed defendant's counsel to prepare an answer and serve it on the adverse party within ten days and thereafter apply for leave to file it, when the matter would be determined.

The case is a complicated one of long standing, and involves the ownership of the El Dorado ditch and an accounting for the rents and profits since 1874, and many other questions.

THE EMPEROR.

An Interview with Dr. Mackenzie Relating to His Patient.

LONDON, May 14.—The Pall [illegible] prints the following interview between Steau and Dr. Mackenzie.

Mackenzie looked worn and anxious. He showed traces of the long vigils he maintained in his attendance upon the emperor. During the night he was repeatedly summoned to the emperor's side. He stated to Steau that his patient [illegible] that could be desired [illegible] way of patience and cheerfulness. He is gentle and trustful, and as [illegible] as a child. He bears pain [illegible] rarely, and does not indulge in needless worrying. He [illegible] ments that he had [illegible] pray for his release from [illegible] that he longed for death were untrue.

"It is by no means certain," said the doctor, "that he has made up his mind that he is dying."

He does not suffer from the [illegible] though inflammation and the sloughing of portions of the dead cartilage cause inconvenience. Reports of a bad odor prevailing in the sick room are gross exaggerations. Until his majesty's recent [illegible] ness, he sat at the table at meal times and went about, and he did not disturb any one.

The doctor said that if the emperor's strength improved, he hoped he could be moved shortly to Potsdam.

The emperor is in the habit of [illegible] mon to all chronics, who entertain a belief that they will live a couple of [illegible] when they mentally plan for the [illegible] fear that all will be over with [illegible] days. LACERATED UNDER A LOG.

Terrible Accident to the Owner of a Logging Camp on the Columbia.

Carried for Three-Quarters of an Hour—Sudden Death from Paralysis—Notes from St. Vincent's Hospital.

Samuel Ternahan, a young man of Green's camp on the Columbia, was badly injured while logging yesterday morning, and was brought to this city last night on the Bonita. The steamer arrived in about 7:30 o'clock, and he was at once taken to St. Vincent's hospital. The accident happened at Mr. Green's logging camp, at Green's point, which is near Bradbury, Or., about half-way between Portland and Astoria. About 10 o'clock A. M. Mr. Ternahan was handling a pile of logs with five large logs. He started to come down a very steep skid when the logs took a start, and before he could get out of the way one of the largest caught his foot and carried him along the ground for a distance of three rods, when it came to a stop against an embankment. It was found necessary to extricate the wounded man with jackscrews, which were brought [illegible] and worked three-quarters of an hour before they were able to relieve him from his position. The log that struck him was a very large one and would scale 2400 feet. The young man was conscious throughout the ordeal and gave orders how he should be extricated, and he should be at once removed to his home, which was of course done. Dr. Harry Cliff having been telegraphed for, met the boat at St. Helens and examined the man's injuries on the [illegible]

Ternahan is a young man of 24 years, a cousin of F. Ternahan, an old-timer, who came to Oregon twenty-five years ago. His wife and young wife (he having been married only seven months) accompanied him to the city. He is a young man of fine physique and of steady and industrious habits. He was working at his own logging camp getting out logs for Hogue & [illegible] of Portland.

Dr. [illegible] made a careful examination of the man's injuries last night at the hospital and has little hopes of his recovery; the injuries are so serious and of such a complicated nature. They consist in the frightful laceration of the muscles of the upper part of the leg, the outer and inner portions of the thigh, the fracture of the pelvis, and the crushing and tearing up of even the deep muscles. The injuries are very extensive and included the adjoining internal parts, and there is a great danger of concealed hemorrhage. The father and wife of the wounded man are, of course, in a dreadful state of [illegible]

SUDDEN DEATH.

J. C. Wilber died last night at 8:30 o'clock at St. Vincent's hospital. Mr. Wilber was a [illegible] in Cooley's coffin manufactory in [illegible]. At 2:30 in the afternoon, one of his fellow workmen noticed him lying across a box he was at work on. When spoken to he could not answer, and it was found that he had had a stroke of paralysis, caused by hemorrhage. Dr. Rafferty was called in, but at 3 o'clock Mr. Wilber had another stroke, from which time on, he was unable to speak a word. As soon as possible he was taken to the hospital where he was under Dr. McKenzie's care until he died. Mr. Wilber was about 60 years old. He lived [illegible] on First street between B and C. He was a very reticent man, and repelled all attempts at the factory, made to draw him out. He was a good faithful workman, and had at one time been in the register department of the postoffice.

THROWN FROM A BUGGY.

Mrs. Joseph Skelton, the wife of the chief engineer of the Portland flouring mills, met with a serious accident near Albina Sunday, while out for a ride in a buggy. She had been [illegible] and was being driven home at the time of the accident. They had reached a point about halfway between the railroad track and the flouring mill, where the road is not more than sixteen feet wide, when the horse suddenly shied on seeing the slide in the road where the earth came down last winter and became unmanageable and backed the buggy down an embankment a distance of about sixty feet, Mrs. Skelton and the driver remaining in the vehicle while it was being precipitated. The lady was picked up and conveyed to her home. The injured woman was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital. She was badly bruised about the legs and there are fears she has sustained internal injuries. Yesterday [illegible] made a partial examination [illegible] injuries. No bones were broken. To-day a more thorough examination [illegible]. At a late hour last night the injured woman was resting easily.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

Besides the two cases of Samuel Ternahan and J. C. Wilber, the following patients arrived at the hospital yesterday:

[illegible], from Montana.

[illegible], from Scappoose, with a very [illegible]

[illegible] McKay, a sailor, with a ruptured [illegible]

[illegible], from The Dalles, general [illegible] and an aggravated case of asthma.

John Wright, brought from [illegible] who was blood-poisoned, has, [illegible] pulled through, and is [illegible]. The poisoning was from [illegible]

[illegible], a young man from east [illegible], is recovering from a very [illegible] of typhoid fever. He is now [illegible]

PORTLAND WHERE HE WENT.

[illegible] Evans Tells How People in the Corn Belt Talked About Oregon.

[illegible] months ago Col. Dudley Evans, [illegible] a number of years was general [illegible] of this division [illegible] Fargo & Co.'s express, was appointed to the general management of the [illegible] of the same company, with [illegible] at Omaha. He left this city [illegible] receiving the appointment, and [illegible] been residing in Omaha. Col. [illegible] from the East Sunday evening. [illegible] his absence East his family has [illegible] for Omaha, accompanied by [illegible] they will hereafter reside.

[illegible] conversation with an OREGONIAN [illegible] Col. Evans said:

"[illegible] are at present at Omaha, [illegible] property interests are still in [illegible]. I do not expect to desert this [illegible] I know of all things being [illegible] the most pleasant and [illegible] Since leaving Portland I have [illegible] through Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, Iowa and Minnesota. The Pacific coast is attracting a large [illegible] attention. I was asked a [illegible] questions about Oregon and [illegible] in particular. On some [illegible] I was asked [illegible] answering [illegible] invariably asked if it [illegible] place to go to. I always [illegible] to give the state [illegible] I told those who [illegible] that Portland had 50,000 [illegible] expressed much surprise [illegible] When I told them [illegible] and something [illegible] resources of the country [illegible] greatly surprised. I said to [illegible] when talking about this part [illegible]: 'You certainly have [illegible] fine fruits here; you have [illegible] land and grain, you raise corn, [illegible] grain, fruits and vegetables [illegible] good; but see what you [illegible] to import your wood [illegible] We have to import [illegible] all kinds of grain, [illegible] We have horses, [illegible] to supply fuel [illegible] There is everything [illegible] wants, comforts [illegible] Oil is found in [illegible] independently, a [illegible] good deal of talk everywhere about Oregon and Washington territory. The recent efforts which are being put forth to advertise Oregon by the board of immigration, have commenced to bear abundant fruits. Such efforts must result in incalculable benefits to this country."

Col. Evans said he still owned his real estate in Portland and that it had not depreciated since he had changed residence. Referring to the new hotel project he said that was one of the most urgent needs of Portland. This city should have a large first-class hotel, and he was very glad to know that the scheme to supply this want was certain to succeed. In conclusion, Col. Evans expressed great satisfaction at the steady and rapid growth of Portland, and the many encouraging indications of prosperity.

From Col. Evans's conversation, one is led to believe that in his intercourse with men presumably intelligent, he found almost as dense a degree of ignorance concerning Portland, as Emissary Moorhead of the immigration board did among the grangers of Nebraska.

INVITED TO SEND EXHIBITS.

The Chief Commissioner to the Melbourne Exposition Addresses the Pacific Coast.

The following circular received here yesterday commends itself to all enterprising merchants and manufacturers of Oregon:

OFFICE U. S. COMMISSIONER TO MELBOURNE EXPOSITION, 312 CALIFORNIA ST., SAN FRANCISCO, May 10, 1888.

To the Merchants and Manufacturers of the Pacific Coast: Gentlemen—The United State government has appropriated $50,000 for the purpose of defraying the expenses of a commission, which has been appointed by direction of the president, to attend the Centennial International exhibition at Melbourne, Australia, opening on the 1st day of August and continuing until the 31st January, next. The undersigned has been appointed chief commissioner to this exposition, with power to expend public funds to a limited and strictly defined extent, for the purpose of facilitating American exhibitors in every reasonable way to the extent of his ability.

Communications have been entered into with the agents of the Oceanic Steamship Company in this city, who have arranged that all shipments for exhibition shall be taken at a reduction of 50 per cent. on ordinary rates.

A special rate of $300 for the passage from this port to Sydney and return has been made by the Oceanic Steamship Company good for return in eight months.

It is important to understand that shipments to be in time for the opening of the exposition must leave by the steamers of May 31 or June 28, the earlier the better.

Exhibits of raisins and other dried fruits which may not be ready for shipment until the product of the present season is harvested, may be shipped even after the exhibition opens. Space will be reserved for these exhibits, notice of which should be given the commissioner prior to the time of shipment.

A liberal appropriation of space has been made by the Melbourne commission for the accommodation of American exhibits. Intending exhibitors who have no agents in Melbourne may consign their exhibits to the commissioner of the United States for the exposition at Melbourne, who will take charge of and attend to their proper disposition.

The exposition building, for the convenience of foreign exhibitors, has been declared a bonded warehouse. All goods will be received without payment of duties, and unless sold (in which case local duties, if any, will be charged, will be returned to the owner in bond.

The citizens of the Pacific coast are earnestly solicited to exert themselves to the utmost during the short time of the commission in this city, in procuring for the United States department as large a display of the manufactures and products of our country as practicable.

The merchants of San Francisco have organized a committee to assist the commissioner in obtaining exhibits, as follows:

Chamber of Commerce—Hugh Craig, F. A. Haber and I. C. Moore.

Board of Trade—George W. Meade, J. B. Stetson and Eugene Beck.

Produce Exchange—R. B. Forman, Byron F. Stone and C. F. Bassett.

Manufacturers' Association—Wm. Harney, Charles J. Woodbury and Isaac Hecht.

THE FIRE HOSE SUPPLY.

Enough for Ordinary Service, and Provision Made for Emergencies.

Mention was made Sunday morning, in the account of Saturday's fire, of the circumstance that there were a number of sections of hose burst, even under ordinary pressure of either the engines or hydrants. To this fact was due much of the annoyance to the firemen and delay in subduing the flames. Rotten hose, it was unpleasantly demonstrated on that occasion, is a bad thing when an emergency of magnitude arises. Bursting hose paralyzes the most efficient action of the department, thwarts the most disciplined organization, and thoroughly disheartens heroic efforts. That the hose proved so inadequate at Saturday's fire, is really not much to be wondered at, when the fact is considered that much of the hose has been in constant service ever since the paid fire department supplanted the old volunteer system. This was over five years ago. Five years' continual use is enough to test the durability and strength of the best hose manufactured.

It has been thought that 1000 feet of new hose purchased each year is enough to keep the department supplied with a good, serviceable article, but the experience of the past few years has demonstrated the falacy of the conclusion. On that basis, each engine and hose company would receive about 200 feet of the new hose during the year. In the event of a great fire, that supply would certainly be insufficient to meet the emergency. Chief Morgan informed a reporter yesterday that there is now a surplus of about 1000 feet of new hose and other hose that is in good condition for service at the corporation shed. Under present arrangements the chief and board of fire commissioners can procure any required amount of hose whenever an emergency arises, which renders the present supply inadequate from those who have it for sale in the city. This arrangement places the department in a position which enables it to successfully cope with a fire of unusual magnitude. No action could be of more importance, for vast property interests are involved in the question.

CAPT. SCOTT'S NEW BOAT.

The Telephone to Have a Trial Trip to Astoria Next Saturday.

Capt. Scott's elegant new boat, the Telephone, is now moored just below the foot of Alder street, receiving the last finishing and furnishing touches. By Friday evening of the present week, the work will all be completed, and Saturday a trial trip will be made from Portland to Astoria and return in one day. Yesterday carpenters and painters were engaged in winding up the job on which they have been so long engaged. Putting down the carpets and placing in the seats will follow in a few days. Opera chairs will be placed in the ladies and gentlemen's cabins instead of the continuous row of seats which is used on most of the river steamers. The chairs used in the dining-room will be of improved pattern and perfectly white. From the aft end of the ladies' cabin to the forward end of the gentlemen's cabin is 165 feet, and the carpet will be over 100 feet in length. The interior of the cabins will be simply elegant in its appearance and complete in appointments. Facilities for the extinguishment of fire are complete, and at an instant's notice several lines of hose can be brought into service. The Telephone sits beautifully on the water, her model keel and handsome lines showing to excellent advantage. If the telephone is not a flyer she very greatly deceives her looks. As the boat and machinery are entirely new the time made on the trial trip will probably not be a test.

Pullman reservations made for all points east via the Northern Pacific Railroad. Office, No. 2 Washington street.

PROTZMAN HIRED A HALL.

The Ex-County Democratic Chairman Explains to His Constituents.

He Unfolds a Plain, Unvarnished Tale of His Work in Behalf of the Party—Some Personalities.

Eugene C. Protzman, ex-chairman of the county democratic committee, who has been dubbed by untrue democrats as a civil service reformer, successor to Samuel J. Tilden in the management of political machinery and exposer of alleged political bargains, addressed a fair-sized crowd at Masonic hall last night which had assembled in response to personal invitations and the card published for several consecutive days in THE OREGONIAN. He arrived at the hall at 7:30, with a number of books which he deposited on the speaker's stand on the platform. Then he returned to the auditorium and conversed with three friends from Albina, one of whom was J. H. Steffen, who has just declined to be a candidate for state senator on the democratic ticket. At 8 o'clock there were less than 100 present. Mr. Protzman did not relish the idea of talking to such a small audience so he stepped upon the platform and remarked that he supposed that the remaining 49,900 of Portland's population were kept away by the heat and if satisfactory to the audience he would wait a few minutes for a larger crowd so that everybody could understand him. Ten minutes later some of the audience evinced a disposition to hear what was to be heard and stamped their feet. Mr. Protzman then came on the platform for the second time and opened the exercises of the evening by making an attack on a pitcher of sherry cobbler, in which floated strawberries, pieces of orange and ice. After saying "here's luck" to the audience he quaffed a glass of the drink. He repeated the performance several times.

There were between 150 and 200 persons present by this time, of whom at least one-half were republicans who had come to see the "fun." On the stage, exclusive of four reporters, was a long-bearded man, who was the only one who had responded to the invitation to sit on the platform with a "few other prominent taxpayers." The aspect of a real estate office was given the hall by a large map of the city showing the blocks, additions, etc., which was hung on the wall.

The speaker began by apologizing for the fact that he had never made a speech before in his life, and he hoped that if he made any grammatical errors or showed a tendency to become prosy, the audience would excuse him. There was mute consent to the proposition, and Mr. Protzman went on to say that he would use no personalities, but he would try to answer any questions asked. He continued: "I feel that I have a grievance, because the last county convention by its actions, although it removed me from the chairmanship, wanted me to go ahead with the work I had commenced. I will explain what my system was and its probable effect on politics. I think it would, if carried out, have given us a better local government. Eight years ago, having read a great deal of Samuel J. Tilden's life, and being an admirer of him, and so far as I could see there having been no previous organization of democracy in this county, I conceived a plan to bring the democrats to the polls and thought I would attempt it. I had no money, no authority to carry out my ideas, not being an official representative of the party but thought I could get up a system similar to the one which enabled Samuel J. Tilden to sweep the country in 1876 without interfering with any one else. So I made a rough pencil diagram of the block on which I lived and the houses situated on it, marked the number of each lot on the block and entered the names of the occupants of the houses, and their politics, religion and occupation. Democrats were marked D., republicans R., and reform republicans R. R. When asked why I had done this, I replied that if I could get the democrats living in my neighborhood to vote I would be doing something for my party. I don't know whether I improved on Mr. Tilden. My scheme was to ascertain the name, place of residence, politics, religion and occupation of every man in the city." The speaker, in defense of his plan, cited the case of the thorough organization of the democracy in Ohio in 1876.

He continued: "So far we have been governed by some one else instead of by ourselves. My idea was to take the democratic party into partnership. If we do this we will create a party sufficiently large to go to the primaries two years hence and send men to the county convention to nominate a ticket which we can all conscientiously support. Now, in the republican ranks, two or three men meet and put up a job. One wants to be a clerk and another wants a railroad lawyer for United States senator. [Applause.] Cecil Holcomb, "Bony" Lappeus and Sam Wolf put up a ticket to be voted for at the primaries in North Portland for what purpose no one knows. Thirteen votes were cast in a precinct where there are 300 democratic votes. The ticket did not suit me and I enquired about it. I was told that one was put on in the interest of Sam Wolf who desired eventually to send a favorite to the national convention. I found another man on the ticket who at a previous election peddled democratic tickets with Joe Simon's name on them. He gave me a ticket and I expect I voted for Joe that time. I have done many things since that I am ashamed of. Any way, I took the tickets from the fellow but he returned in an hour with more of the same kind." [Laughter].

Tom Neally, who had been sitting still in a front seat for about five minutes bawled out, "You suit me, you suit me," which invoked the wrath of the speaker, who asked Tom to stop, as he had the floor.

Mr. Protzman continued: "We cannot do anything now; it is too late in the campaign."

He then returned to his recital of the vicissitudes encountered in the growth of his plan. He insisted that he was simply carrying out Mr. Tilden's ideas. The plan prospered, and at the presidential election in 1880 about 300 young democrats worked around the polls in the interest of the party. As a consequence the democratic vote was 2718 as compared with 1939 in June, an increase of 112 per cent. in five months as compared with a republican increase of 33 per cent. He charged that in 1884 there was a great deal of repetition of votes. "In June the republican candidate for congress received 621 votes in North Portland, and in November the republican candidate for president (Blaine) should have received at least as many, for Blaine is popular; there is no use talking. [Applause.] He received only 446 votes, which showed that 225 voted in June who had no right to. The republicans used the sack, just as Killin says we must do. All told, fully 1500 illegal votes were cast in Portland in 1884. In 1884 Hermann received 5535 votes, and in 1886 4332, the decrease showing that the republicans are becoming disgusted with ring rule."

Neally interrupted the speaker by yelling "Hurrah for Gearin." A number of others joined him.

Mr. Protzman then referred to the big map of Portland, and pointed out the location of the different precincts. He denied that he had been extravagant while chairman of the county committee. He explained: "In four weeks, at a cost of $850, I had 1350 blocks in the city diagrammed, showing the residence of each person who lived on the block, and giving his politics, religion, etc. Besides, I had the names of nearly 3000 voters, 1377 democrats and 1500 republicans. At the last election $5000 was spent for the benefit of the democracy. Of this amount $600 was my money. When I asked the treasurer of the county committee what had become of the remaining $4400 he told me it was none of my business, and intimated that it had been spent for advertising. Yet they called me extravagant for spending $850 for advertising."

Mr. Protzman said that previous to the recent democratic county convention an average of 300 persons called at the county committee's rooms every week. This was evidence of the success of his plan. He argued that his system gives the democrats the "dead wood" on the illegal voters. He also said that it would put an end to the influence of the "sack." He said he never asked a delegate to the late county convention to vote for him for chairman. He said the convention was bought up by the opposition and that he could have bought it again had he been "on the buy." He predicted that strong democratic districts would return republicans to the legislature to the end that a republican United States senator may be elected.

Neally again interrupted. This time he amused the audience by charging the speaker with being a republican.

Mr. Protzman next charged Ben L. Norden with pretending friendship for him and then knifing him. Norden, he said, told him that he and the rest of the democrats approved of his system, and also that they would support him for delegate to the state convention, which they did not. "Now I want to know why in hell they did that and then threw me down," he demanded. This remark was greeted with laughter.

Mr. Protzman concluded: "Now, my friends, I want you all to turn out at the primaries two years from now, and send good men to the democratic and republican county conventions, so that we can have a fight on principle. [Applause.] Now, good night, unless you wish to ask questions."

"Yes, I want to ask a question," shouted Neally. "Are you a democrat or republican?"

Mr. Protzman made no answer, and the meeting adjourned amid Neally's yelling for Gearin and Ben Butler.

Milton B. Goodkind, who had promised to expose certain "secrets" did not put in his appearance.

TOLD OF HER TRAVELS.

Jeannie Winston Says Some Pleasant Things About This Part of the World.

Every Saturday, a journal published in Baltimore, devoted to literature, the drama and public topics, of the issue of Saturday, April 28, contains an excellent picture of Miss Jeannie Winston. The paper of the same date also contains a letter from the favorite mezzo prima donna. The editor of Every Saturday wrote a note to Miss Winston, asking her to furnish an account of her professional experiences since her departure from Baltimore. Miss Winston gracefully complied, and from her letter the following extracts are made:

> After my season in San Francisco we went to Portland, Oregon, an old home of mine. They received me extravagantly and treated me like a favorite child. From there we went to all the cities along Puget sound, and up to Victoria, B. C. I had formerly been to all those places when I first came to America, and the people remembered me and greeted me effusively. It seemed odd to sing "God Save the Queen" every night, but I did it with all my might. We retraced our steps to Portland, Oregon, but I must not leave there without some outbreak of admiration in its praise. Oh, Americans, if you only knew the magnificence of your own glorious country, you would not fly to foreign lands for distraction and pleasure. The vast and rolling rivers, the grand and stately forests, the ranges of magnificent mountains climaxing in white unapproachable snow peaks, whose faces reflect every mood and change of the heavens, nature in her largest and most splendid fancy, has shown her generosity. And there are scenes in the West that rival all the greatness or eccentricity of "Rider Haggard's" descriptions in "She" or "King Solomon's Mines."
> We returned to Portland, and then began an entirely new journey for me. We were booked for Montana, and journeyed there through miles of splendid country; by the way, what a country for game of all kinds. I've often wished when I've seen the huge piles of feathered victims, and the gleaming, crisp mounds of silvery fish, that some of my friends, who, I know, appreciate the good things of earth, could just be on the spot to enjoy the delicious flavor of a bird or fish caught in its own home, and not have to wait until packed in ice, and traveling thousands of miles, it reaches them flabby and flavorless.

Miss Winston in the course of her letter gives a very readable account of her experience in Montana, where she was snow-bound for six days.

After giving a pleasant description of her professional travels through Nevada and Southern California, Miss Winston concludes her letter as follows:

> And here I am in Baltimore, and it doesn't seem as if I'd been away at all. Everything looks fondly familiar, and I look forward with keen pleasure to facing my dear old audiences. I cannot finish without telling you how I appreciated the management to whom I was engaged in San Francisco treated me royally, and thought so highly of my artistic ability as to encourage and advise me to reach a higher plane. With that in view, I am busy studying, and hope to prove, with the help of my friends in Baltimore, that I can do something better than I have yet shown them. My ambition is boundless, and I'll help it by hard work.

EXAMINED CABLE RAILWAYS.

The President of the Portland Company Tells What He Saw in San Francisco.

Mr. Preston C. Smith, president of the Cable Railway Company, returned yesterday from San Francisco, whither he had gone in behalf of the company. He expressed himself to an OREGONIAN reporter last night about as follows: "The results of my trip are highly satisfactory. My object was to see, if possible, what form of construction would be the best and cheapest for our needs. I had ample time to examine into the construction and workings of all the San Francisco roads, and to show how they have been experimenting there are no two lines in San Francisco built just alike. The difference consists almost entirely in the depth and shape, and material used in the tube or conduit which carries the cable. The Powell street system is the latest, and I think is the system we need in Portland. The tube is more shallow than the others and is much the more economical. All of the material thus far bought by our company is for this system. The motive power is of course much the same on all the roads. The Market street line in San Francisco, is undoubtedly the best. It was built by wealthy men and the best and heaviest material was used, in fact it seems to me that the tube is unnecessarily massive and cumbersome; that which is of lighter material would answer the purpose quite as well.

In reply to the question as to where the power house should be built whether at the top or bottom or half way up the hill, he said emphatically: "Yes I know where it should be placed but it is not definitely settled yet. We own several places where it can be built. It won't be long now, before we can talk authoritatively about when we will resume and when complete the work. Probably something definite will be made known at our next meeting on Wednesday when I am to make my report."

PERSONAL.

Mr. C. McKinnon will leave for Seattle to-day.

Mr. L. Jones will leave to-day for Spokane Falls.

J. B. Eliot, the business manager of the San Francisco Chronicle, passed through this city from San Francisco en route to New York.

Miss Sarah Beck and Mrs. Max Davis and three children will leave San Francisco to-day for Portland to visit their parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Beck. Mrs. Davis has been absent for nine or ten years.

Capt. Jas. W. Troup left Portland yesterday for a short trip to The Dalles. He went for the purpose of concluding all arrangements in regard to bringing the steamer Hassalo down over the cascades.

The condition of Policeman Henline is said to be unfavorable, and such as to excite but little hope. He has a complication of ailments, and his friends do not speak in encouraging terms of his ultimate recovery.

Chief of Police Parrish is resting more comfortably than at any time since he was first taken ill. His physician stated late last evening that, under all the circumstances, Parrish's condition was remarkably favorable.

Mr. W. Payne and wife of Lexington, Ky., are at the Gilman. Mr. Payne is anxious to meet a Mr. Miller formerly of Lexington, now a resident of Oregon. Should this meet his eye, he may address Mr. Payne at the Gilman.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron A. Young and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dougan of Tacoma, were at the Esmond yesterday, having just returned from a trip over the Northern Pacific to Spokane Falls, thence back to Portland via Wallula.

Mr. George W. Freeman, of the United States engineers force employed at Fort Stevens, was in the city yesterday. He came up to meet his wife who has been visiting friends up the valley. They left for Astoria last night.

General Manager W. H. Holcomb, and C. W. Johnson, superintendent of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, left here yesterday for Walla Walla on business, connected with the company. They will return to the city Thursday.

William Colvert, of Grand Forks, Dakota, but who spent the past winter in Butte, Montana, arrived here this morning. He comes to look for a location to go into business, that of bookbinding, which he has successfully carried on for many years. The rigorous climate of Dakota impels him to take this step. He leaves for the Sound to-day, and will visit Tacoma, Seattle and Victoria. He is favorably impressed with Portland, and finds it far in advance of what he expected.

REFUSES TO TALK POLITICS.

Dr. Driver Will Speak About Prohibition, and Prohibition Only.

He Will Not Discuss Other Issues With Prof. Miller—His Views on Moral Reform Clearly Stated.

The announcement in yesterday morning's OREGONIAN that Dr. I. D. Driver and Prof. G. M. Miller would hold a joint debate in the court house Wednesday evening, on the political issues of the day, was a surprise to Dr. Driver. It having been rumored that he would not talk politics, an OREGONIAN reporter was detailed to get his views. He answered the reporter's questions freely and fully. He said: "The announcement this morning puts me in a false light before the public and calls for an explanation. On Saturday evening, May 5th, (I think) at the earnest request of some third party people I went to hear ex-Gov. St. John in the Tabernacle. At the close he announced himself to speak in the First M. E. church in East Portland, Sunday evening, May 6th, at 7:30. As that was my church and my hour to preach I was somewhat surprised. On Sunday morning finding no written announcement I inquired by what authority the announcement had been made. The third party men got up and disclaimed any knowledge of the matter. The trustees, Mr. Hansen and Mr. Kenworthy, said they gave them the church for 3 P. M. if he would not talk politics. As he had been refused a place even in the Tabernacle in Portland, and taking my pulpit without consulting me, and as it was known from Portland to Ashland that I had opposed putting prohibition into politics, it put me in a false position and interrogation came from far and near. Not wishing to stir up strife, I said nothing in the papers, but was asked to define my position, which I did before the republican club. All present will testify my whole speech was directed to the one point, 'Keep prohibition and all moral reforms out of political hands.' This I have preached and practiced for thirty-one years in Oregon and opposed even sending ministers to Indian reservations, and time has vindicated my course.

"A few days ago Mr. Ward, candidate for sheriff on the third party ticket, came into my study with Rev. Mr. Crosier and asked me if I would meet Mr. Miller and defend my position. I told them with the political aspects I had nothing to do and objected to mixing up prohibition with tariff and all other political issues, as it would divide prohibition sentiment and kill prohibition; but my position to keep it out of politics I was willing to defend anywhere, and would reply to Mr. Miller or any other man, if asked to do so; that I had no fight to make, but only to defend myself against misrepresentation. And I say now I am willing to defend my position at any time and place when my friends think best, but whoever announced me on tariff or any other political question was as far from facts as when my evening service was given to St. John without my knowledge."

"Then you won't speak Wednesday evening at the court house?" asked the reporter.

"Certainly not, according to the announcement," answered Dr. Driver. "If the discussion is confined strictly to prohibition, and my friends so desire, I will be glad to meet Mr. Miller. I should think that one evening would not suffice for both of us. If I were to choose my way, I should take notes of what Mr. Miller says on prohibition and answer him some other evening, or if the audience is patient enough to wait, answer him right then and there."

"Will you kindly state your position on the prohibition question?"

"Briefly it is this," said Dr. Driver. "To keep prohibition out of politics, and that it is wise to kill the prohibition party as a political organization. No moral reform can ever stand on a political basis. This has been the world's history for 1800 years, as I have said many times. Prohibition can no more live in a political atmosphere than oranges can grow in Greenland, or trees of paradise in purgatory. This position I will defend at all proper times."

NOTICE OF RECEIVER'S SALE—NOTICE IS hereby given that pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of the United States for the district of Oregon, entered April 21, 1888, in a cause therein pending wherein Albert G. Bogert et. al. are plaintiffs and Joseph Holladay, executor, substituted for Ben. Holladay, deceased, et al., are defendants, the undersigned, receiver therein, will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, in Portland, Multnomah county, Oregon, at the door of the county court house of said county, at 10 o'clock A. M. of Thursday, May 31, 1888, ten thousand, being all the shares of the capital stock of the Oregon Real Estate Company. The stock will be offered for sale in lots of five hundred shares each, and will be sold to the highest bidders respectively, upon this understanding and condition, to-wit: That after the stock has been bid off in lots as aforesaid the stock will be offered for sale in one lot of ten thousand shares, and will be sold to the highest bidder therefor, in case his bid for the stock as a whole exceeds the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid; but if the bid for the stock as a whole does not exceed the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid, then the stock will be declared sold to the respective bidders for the several lots of stock.

Dated Portland, Oregon, April 24, 1888.

G. G GAMMANS, Receiver.

The property owned by the Oregon Real Estate Company, and which is represented by the stock of said company to be sold as above set forth, consists principally of about fourteen hundred lots, fifty by one hundred feet each, situated in the choicest residence portion of the city of East Portland. That part of the property adjacent to the eastern terminus of the new iron bridge between Portland and East Portland will soon be desirable for business purposes, while the high level land extending for a mile back from the river offers chances for homes that will be eagerly seized upon when the land is offered for sale in lots and blocks. A year ago three of the leading real estate dealers of Portland appraised this property at over a half million of dollars, and since then it has advanced considerably in value. This stock is to be sold to pay off $350,000 claims against the estate of Ben Holladay. 24a35

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, MAY 15.

THUMBS UP!

Within the last two years the democratic party in the Pacific states has reversed its position on the tariff question. A "flop" so complete is, indeed, very remarkable. What has caused it?

Two years ago the democrats of Oregon, in their state convention assembled, resolved that, "as a matter of justice the wool growing interests of the country should receive the same benefit from a tariff as the manufacturers of woolen goods; and we condemn the action of a republican congress in reducing the tariff on wool and in increasing the tariff on woolen goods." This is the declaration of the fourth resolution of the platform of the Oregon democracy, adopted at their state convention held at Portland, May 4, 1880.

Likewise the democrats of California in their state platform of 1886 complained that the present wool tariff was not high enough. We quote this passage: "The present tariff on wool is an unjust discrimination against a great industry, and we denounce the same and demand the restoration of the tariff of 1867."

Here we have the record made by the democrats both of Oregon and of California only two years ago. In both states they declared that the duty on wool was not high enough. A republican congress in 1883 had slightly reduced the duty on wool, though it is not true as alleged by the democrats of Oregon that it had also increased the duty on woolen goods; yet this slight reduction was condemned by the democratic conventions of both states. In both states now the democratic party declares that the whole duty should be taken from wool, that wool shall have no further protection whatever, and that free trade in wool shall be established, though protection is continued to manufacturers of woolen goods. What has produced this remarkable change?

The pressure brought to bear by the administration at Washington has done it. Grover Cleveland last December devoted a large part of his message to advocacy of free trade in wool. This set the example for the office-holders and aspirants for office in Oregon, who, though their last state convention had condemned the republicans for having made, three years before, a slight reduction of the wool tariff, and had resolved that "as a matter of justice the wool-growing interests of the country should receive the same benefit from a tariff as the manufacturers of woolen goods," immediately turned about, and now are supporting the Cleveland-Carlisle-Mills bill, which takes the whole duty from the wool-grower, yet continues protection to the woolen manufacturer.

This change was brought about largely through the help of agents of the administration sent into the state. One of them, directly commissioned by the president, came into Oregon to superintend the state convention of the party and to see to it that the new policy of the administration should receive approval and endorsement. Partisan feeling and the zeal of office-holders and office-seekers did the rest; and now the democratic party is making its canvass chiefly in support of a policy which, in its last platform it declared, as "a matter of justice," ought to be condemned.

This too is the programme of the Southern democracy, to whom the Northern democracy have always been subservient. Everyone knows that the greatest abuse of protection is the enormous protective duty on sugar; everyone knows that it is the chief source of the redundant revenue piling up in the treasury; everyone knows that any just measure of tariff reform should begin with, or at least include, great reduction or total abolition of the sugar duty. But the Southern democracy will not have it, and the Northern democracy not only meekly assent to maintenance of a high protective duty on sugar (and also on rice, another Southern product) but humbly eat their words of two years ago on the wool tariff, and resolve now in favor of what they declared was injustice then.

Two years ago, when the Oregon democracy were resolving that, "as a matter of justice, the wool-growing interests of the country should receive the same benefit from the tariff as the manufacturers of woolen goods," the civil service reformer at Washington was not interfering in the politics of the state to the extent of dictating the platform of his party. Nor had the demand of the South in regard to the tariff been made known. But now we have the rescript of the reformer and the declaration of the South, and the managers of the democratic party in Oregon obediently reverse their position, stultify themselves, declare in favor of a policy that they vehemently denounced two years ago, and appear to expect the people of Oregon to approve their political versatility. It may be suspected that disappointment will ensue.

A ROUGH ROAD FOR FULLER.

In 1862, when tens of thousands of the loyal sons of Indiana and Illinois were at the front, fighting the battles of the country, men like Daniel W. Voorhees and Melville W. Fuller led the peace copperhead party in their respective states, and through the absence of so many loyal men, were able to win the elections. Voorhees got his flaying some days ago at the hands of Ingalls, and Fuller, now nominated for chief justice, is to get his overhauling in a few days by a score of men in the senate. While so many of the loyal sons of Illinois were away in the Union armies that state had the misfortune and disgrace of a copperhead legislature, and Fuller was a leader in this conclave of semi-rebels. While in that body he spoke and voted for a series of resolutions that declared that "the constitution could not be preserved, nor the Union maintained by the exercise of coercive powers;" that "the emancipation proclamation is an act of gross usurpation and must be withdrawn;" that "the further prosecution of the war cannot result in the restoration of the Union," and much more to the same effect. A long list of the measures employed by the government for prosecution of the war was recited, and all were denounced as unconstitutional and subversive of liberty. In 1864 Fuller was an active member of the democratic national convention that declared the war a failure, and demanded that the prosecution of it should cease. All this record will confront him in the senate, and if it does not prevent his confirmation, at least it will make him and his party feel extremely uncomfortable.

A competent engineer states that a railroad from Astoria to Clatsop beach would of necessity be very expensive. The ground on the west side of Young's river is very marshy, and would necessitate piling and trestling the greater part of the whole distance. Such work would cost $5 or $6 a foot or an expense of over $25,000 a mile. Even at this great cost the road would undoubtedly be a paying investment, could capitalists be induced to venture their money upon its construction. While there are so many other certain means of making money bear the fruit of large interest, it is difficult to obtain it for the less lucrative purpose of developing the country and enlarging its resources and capabilities.

The Palouse Gazette, published at Colfax, W. T., advocates the building of a linseed oil mill at that place, and gives its reasons why: "Nearly all the flaxseed raised in the Northwest is grown in the Palouse country. Thousands of bushels are annually shipped away to mills in other states where the oil is extracted and reshipped to the region where the seed was grown. Here is an opportunity for capital to be used to advantage in developing a home industry. It would keep thousands of dollars at home, stimulate the production of a valuable commodity, assist the farmers, and furnish employment to a number of operatives who would make homes among us." The establishment of a linseed oil mill in this city will greatly lessen the prospects for one at Colfax, but it will be none the less of benefit to the Palouse country. A mill of this kind, like a flouring mill, must be located at a railroad center, where its products can reach easily all the markets of the world. This is of far more importance than a location close to the agricultural region. The mill at Portland will use all the flaxseed that the farmers of the Palouse country can produce, at a good profit to them, and Colfax, the center of a prosperous community, will prosper as much as if the mill was located there.

Willis L. Pence, of Caleb, Grant county, Oregon, who writes a letter of inquiry to THE OREGONIAN concerning a certain lottery company, is informed that in the opinion of THE OREGONIAN all lotteries are frauds. The law of Oregon does not permit lotteries in this state, and the inhibition is based on sound views of public policy. A lottery is a curse to everyone who buys its tickets, and it is the greatest curse to those who are unfortunate enough to get a prize. It is then that the mania fully develops, and afterward all money that can be raised by hook or crook is poured into the coffers of the company in the vain hope of getting another prize. No one ever heard, except in romance, of anyone ever winning two prizes. Mr. Pence, of Grant county, would better come to the conclusion that it makes no difference whatever to him whether a certain lottery company is or is not a fraud. He will not only be richer, but also happier if he lets all lotteries alone.

It is a curious fact that Col. Ingersoll, who the other day so eloquently eulogized Conkling at Albany, in 1876 named Blaine "The Plumed Knight," and at Chicago in 1880 put in circulation the remark that "Conkling was a well-dressed sneer," thus revamping Carlyle's description of Byron as "a sulky dandy." Ingersoll, however, since 1880 has become better acquainted with both Blaine and Conkling. After Garfield was elected, Ingersoll found out that some appointment he desired was refused on the ground that "it would hurt the administration with the 'unco guid' to be publicly known as favoring a man of Ingersoll's heretical religious views," and Ingersoll was therefore a cold looker-on in Blaine's fight of 1884. In New York city Ingersoll became intimately associated with Conkling in the trial of important lawsuits, and he soon found out that Conkling was a good deal more than "a well-dressed sneer."

Somebody asked the New York Tribune the following question:

Are there any Chinamen in New York who are citizens and voters?

Can a Chinaman or Indian vote under any circumstances?

The Tribune replies to the first question: "A considerable number of Chinamen were naturalized in the court of common pleas in this city between 1878, when Judge Robinson held that they were eligible to citizenship, and 1882, when congress passed a law forbidding any state or federal court to admit them as citizens. But inasmuch as the United States courts invariably held with Judge Sawyer, of California, that they could not be naturalized, the number of that race who obtained full papers must have been small. Probably a few of them still remain in this city." To the second question: "Chinamen, No, except as stated in the preceding answer. Indians, Yes, provided they are taxed."

John Gennadius, Greek minister to this country, asserts that the Greeks to-day are as strong physically as their famous ancestors of classic times. Why not? The Englishman of to-day is of larger average girth and stature, as shown by the armor in the Tower, than any of the famous warriors who fought under the banners of Edward Third and the Black Prince against the French; the average hight, girth and weight of the American volunteer of 1861, according to the official reports, were quite equal to those of the average soldier who marched with Washington to Yorktown or charged with Winfield Scott at Lundy's Lane. If the Englishman and the American have not deteriorated, but rather improved in stature and strength with the march of civilization, why should not the modern Greek be at least as athletic as his ancestors who were taught tactics by Epaminondas and followed Alexander to the Indus?

Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is opposed to the land grant forfeiture bill now pending in the senate, on the ground that the promoters of this legislation have "established pre-emption and homestead claims by which they hope to hold these lands against purchasers in good faith from the railroads, which, it is alleged, have not fulfilled the conditions of their grants." This scheme will be a failure, for, as Senator Hoar says, the entries have not been made in good faith; but he points out that the existence of this scheme proves the necessity of measures to establish the land titles "of purchasers who have accepted railroad grant titles, backed by the good faith of the national government," and Senator Hoar's amendment to this bill seeks to protect the farmers who have paid out their small savings for railroad grant lands.

It has been decided that a state tax on the gross receipts of a railroad company is unconstitutional, except so far as those receipts are from traffic between points wholly within the state, and in consequence, a new method of assessment is advocated at the East, which proposes to tax every railroad or other transportation company in the state on the total value of its stock and bonds in the ratio which the length of the line within the state bears to the whole length of the road. Such a valuation is not open to the objection that the state is trying to tax property outside of its limit, or is interfering with interstate commerce, while the sum value of the stock and bonds represent as nearly as possible the real value of the road, and is therefore the best conceivable measure for its assessment and taxation.

A letter from Washington county, printed on Saturday, stated that if Mr. T. H. Tongue were elected to the state senate ex-Treasurer Pittinger's bondsmen would expect him to get them released by an act of the legislature and that such effort was made at the last legislative session. The statements are not true. No such effort was made during the last session, and none will be made at the next one, or at any future time. Moreover, about two-thirds of the deficit has been paid, and the remainder will be paid as soon as possible. The letter was written by Moses O. H. Johnson, of Gaston.

The receipts of the Portland postoffice for the year 1887 were $78,758; the receipts of all other "presidential" postoffices in the state of Oregon were $18,642. The receipts of all the "presidential" offices in Washington territory were $65,686. The pre-eminence of Portland's position in the Northwest is is strikingly shown by figures like these. The second office is Seattle, with receipts aggregating $10,805, and the third is Salem, with $11,542.

Col. R. J. Ingersoll says that he is in favor of Judge Gresham for president, for the reason that he was a good soldier, an honest cabinet official and is now a just judge. He has filled all positions creditably and honorably. The colonel further admires Gresham because his record is clean and because, in his estimation, he can be elected. If any person can give a better list of reasons why any other man should be nominated he should have the floor by unanimous consent.

THE COMING TOURNAMENT.

Portland Firemen Getting Ready for Visiting Brethren.

The Northwestern Firemen's Association will hold a meeting in the hall of the Portland Volunteer Firemen's Association, Second and Oak streets, at 2 P. M. Thursday, to arrange details for the tournament which will be held in this city June 21, 22 and 23.

A committee from the Volunteer Firemen's Association consisting of Edward Holman, Thomas A. Jordan, Geo. C. Sears and J. J. Meagher will commence canvassing to-day for money for prizes. They expect to raise at least $1500.

It is expected that nine teams will participate in the tournament. They will come from Seattle, Vancouver, Walla Walla, Astoria, Portland, Salem, Albany, Spokane Falls and possibly Lebanon. Astoria and Salem may send two teams each.

Purchase your tickets and reserve your sleeping car accommodation at No. 2 Washington street, office Northern Pacific Railroad.

THE BROOKLYN of PORTLAND

Cheap homes in the beautiful and healthy Queen City of the Columbia. Now that the Portland and Vancouver Railroad is an assured fact, those who want cheap homes in a beautiful and healthy location, with all advantages of good schools and churches, good water, beautiful drives, etc., and all within 30 minutes' ride from the business center of Portland, should come to Vancouver and take advantage of some of the bargains we are offering. Beautiful lots from $150 to $300 each. Unplatted land within the city limits at $250 per acre. Fine farm lands within ¾ mile of city at $40 per acre. Come and see us. We haven't time to describe the different tracts, but will show them to you when you come.

STEARNS & HITCHCOCK, Vancouver, W. T.

PALATINE HILL

This Beautiful Property is Now Offered For Sale

In Small Tracts, at a Cheap Price and Easy Payments.

The special features of this property are its situation, within three miles of the city, on the west bank of the Willamette river, on an elevated plateau, commanding a most extensive and charming view of the city and surrounding country.

ACCESSIBILITY. Being on the west side, the river is not to cross to get at it. The macadamized road runs through the property, and is the finest, best kept and most romantic drive out of the city. The narrow-gauge railroad company will commence 21st May to run nine trains per day each way, at such hours and such a low rate as will accommodate all classes of people. Steamboats are constantly plying on the river, and will carry passengers to and from Palatine Hill landing according to their respective time schedules. This is, without doubt, the most accessible suburban property within reach of all classes of Portland's citizens.

WATER. A plentiful supply of pure water is obtained on every lot.

HEALTHFULNESS. It is above the fog line and free from malaria. For healthfulness it cannot be beat.

CHEAPNESS. It is laid out in tracts of two acres and upwards, and can be bought for from $100 to $1000 per acre, according to location. One acre of the most choice portion can be purchased for less one-third the price of one ordinary residence lot in the city.

Investors will be taken and shown the property, and all information given on application to 10mt ROBT. BELL, 42½ Washington st.

NEW TO-DAY.

BIDS FOR BRIDGES ON PUBLIC ROADS—Bids will be received at the office of the county clerk of Multnomah county until Wednesday, the 6th day of June, 1888, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the construction of and for sealed plans, specifications and strain diagrams for two (2) bridges, as follows: Both to be constructed near the nine-mile post (and near the residence of John Watts) on the road leading from Portland to St. Helens. The plans and specifications prepared by the supervisor of the road district wherein the said bridges are to be constructed, now on file at the county clerk's office, are preferred by the county court as the plans and specifications. Each bidder shall deposit with his bid 5 per cent. of the amount of such bid. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. By order of the board of county commissioners.

THE STAGE.

NEW PARK THEATER.—James M. Ward, the Irish comedian, and Carrie Clarke Ward appeared before a small house last evening in [illegible] drama called "The Red Fox." The play itself is rather an incoherent piece of dramatic literature, disconnected in plot. It contains the typical villain so familiar in all Irish dramas, the "broth of a boy" who always turns up at the right time to spoil his villainies, [illegible], saucy and pert, etc., etc. The company, with the exception of James M. Ward, who is a clever Irish comedian, is hardly up to the average. Mr. Ward made [illegible] Rody McCourra, and sang his songs as though he felt them. Mrs. Ward made fair Mary Carolan, and Frank Hatch [illegible] had as Tomy Grimes. "The [illegible]" to-night.

IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

Additional Local on 3d, 6th and 8th Pages.

PORTLAND ILLUSTRATED. SEND IT EAST.—The promised Portland illustrated edition of Smalley's Northwest Magazine is out and for sale at all the news stands. It is a handsome number, and more fully illustrates Portland than anything it has ever before published. The engravings are very handsome and show the city to best advantage, and form such varied points that in looking the number over a stranger will gain a full knowledge of just how the city looks, how large it is and how picturesquely situated. The articles on Portland are very full and comprehensive. Especially is this so of the articles entitled "Portland's Trade and Commerce," by Benj. I Cohen, "Pictures of Portland," by E. V. Smalley, and "Portland's Commercial Position," by H. W. Scott. It contains over seventy fine engravings of Portland and vicinity, and is certainly just the thing to send East to acquaint the people there of our vast resources and strong commercial position. C. H. Wilcox, 150 First street is general distributing agent.

SMALL FIRE.—Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in the window of an unoccupied shop on Pine street, at the rear of the building occupied by Messrs. Van Fridagh and Shannahan. There were some shavings in the broad window sill, and probably a match among them, left there by some smoker, which was ignited by the sun shining in at the window. Mr. C. E. Pearson, who was passing, broke the window, and a bucket of water put out the blaze. No. 2 engine company, which had been called out, went back to their house, when it was found that the fire had caught in the upper part of the window and smoke was seen coming out from near the cornice. So the hook and ladder company came down with a rush and cut a hole in the wall and turned on a Babcock extinguisher, and the trouble was over.

A PECULIAR "STRAW."—At one point on the Northern Pacific between Portland and Kalama, Mounts Hood, St. Helens and Rainier can be seen on a clear day in all their fullness and grandeur. Sunday while the through passenger train was whirling by this point at the rate of forty miles an hour, the topic of five of the passengers changed from politics to mountain scenery. In a moment they became involved in an argument regarding which of the three mountains was the most beautiful. They agreed to settle the dispute by a ballot, which was taken, resulting as follows: Mt. Hood 3, Mt. Rainier 1, St. Helens 1. Two of the passengers were tourists, one a Portlander, and another, who voted for Mt. Rainier, a Tacomaite, while the man who voted for St. Helens lived at Colfax, W. T.

AGIN' CHANGIN' THE SCHOOL HOUSE.—At Mount Tabor, a few days since, an effort was made to secure more spacious and suitable grounds for school purposes. A gentleman offered to give two acres of ground in a desirable location for the present school lot and $1000. The money was subscribed by some public-spirited citizens of the district, and a meeting was called to vote upon the proposed exchange. There was a small majority opposed to the scheme, and it was voted down. To show what class voted against the proposition it may be stated that out of the thirty-three ballots on which the word "No" was written it was spelled wrongly on eleven.

FINE BUILDING PROSPECTS.—A prominent architect states that prospects are very good for a number of fine buildings being put up here this season. Owing to the costly and handsome buildings which have been put up here of late, persons who have been contemplating building find that it will cost them more than they had contemplated as they do not wish to be behind the times by erecting inferior buildings. "They are all hanging back till about the first of July," said the architect, "and then they will come rushing in and want their buildings completed before the rains come."

FIRE IN THE COUNTRY.—The residence and blacksmith shop of Mr. Jack, at Pleasant Home, was burned Saturday evening. His loss will reach $1500, on which there is no insurance. The postoffice building was considerably damaged, though the house and contents were saved through activity and efficiency of a bucket brigade. The furniture of the residence of Jack was principally saved. The cause of the fire is not known. The tools and stock of the blacksmith are an almost total loss. Mr. Jack is a hard-working man and the loss is a serious one to him.

ÆOLIAN ORGANS.—A novelty in organs is that introduced recently, which combines the ordinary organ with the addition of a device for inserting rolls of paper prepared to create all the popular as well as the most difficult airs by simply moving the pedals with the feet. The music thus produced is similar to that played by an expert. Kohler & Chase, 71 Morrison street, have these organs, and they will take pleasure in showing the manner in which the novelty is manipulated. A child can manage these organs.

CURIOUS RAINBOW.—A gentleman who was fishing at the falls at Oregon City on Sunday says he saw what he considers a very curious phenomenon—a circular rainbow. It was about 400 feet in diameter, the bottom resting on the rapids below the falls. This kind of a rainbow is calculated to disconcert people who believe that where the end of a rainbow rests there is treasure buried, but the amount of treasure secured is the same with one kind of rainbow as another.

PUSHING WORK.—The Toutle Coal Mining Company are making good progress with the development of their mine. They are running a main entrance into the vein and also an under cut which, starting some distance below the main entrance, will strike the vein about 150 feet in. The vein pitches downward 20 feet in the 100 and the under cut is to draw off water and to afford a tramway for taking coal out of the mine. It is being pushed day and night.

PLEADED GUILTY.—Wm. Young alias Riley, indicted for stealing metal from J. H. Steffen's boatyard, pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny in the criminal court yesterday morning and will be sentenced to-day. John Gibson, who stole two overcoats from G. T. Reid, pleaded guilty to petty larceny and was committed to the county jail for ninety days. Henry Clayton, indicted for the larceny of $68 from A. R. Johnson, was given until Thursday to plead.

THE DIVORCE MILL.—Judge Stearns yesterday granted J. E. Field a divorce from Mrs. E. M. Field, on the ground of infidelity, desertion and cruelty. They were married in Portland November 8, 1883. Lula Dimick sued Milo M. Dimick in the state circuit court for a divorce, and for the custody of their five-months-old child. They were married at Albany July 30, 1883.

GOOD FRUIT PROSPECTS.—President Cardwell, of the Fruit-Growers' Association, reports that in his orchard near this city the crop of Royal Ann cherries will be light, but that there will be a very good crop of the Black Republican variety. Peach plums and plums of all kinds will be a full crop, and prunes a very large crop. Apples and pears will also be a good crop.

RESUMED HER WORK.—Mademoiselle Rosa Flumas has resumed her duties as a draper again at Litt's Suit House.

NEARING THE GOAL.

Only $30,000 Lacking to Complete the Great Hotel —Big Subscriptions.

The important and absorbing work of securing the remainder of the stock for the new hotel is steadily advancing, and every indication points to the completion of the entire subscription within the next few days. There is now secured all except $30,000 to fill the entire amount of $500,000.

The citizens are responding with a most commendable degree of public spirit to carry forward one of the most important enterprises ever inaugurated in Portland in all her history. Mayor Van B. DeLashmutt has increased his subscription to $20,000, and Capt. George H. Flanders to $12,000. Besides these a number of small subscriptions were obtained.

SHOOTING THE RAPIDS.

The Northwest Masters' and Pilots' Association are making all preparations for the forthcoming excursion to the Cascades Saturday. Enough boats will be chartered to accommodate the crowds who may desire to attend and witness the spectacle of the steamer Hassalo making the plunge through the rapids.

New goods for the season, just opened. Nicoll the tailor, 120 First street.

LOCAL NOTES.

John Foster, a juror, was excused from duty until the 17th by Judge Shattuck yesterday.

In the state circuit court yesterday Bennett & Harvey sued W. H. Ward to recover $510 52 balance due on goods sold.

If Thomas Joseph Faherty, of Clifden, county Galway, Ireland, will call at the city jail he can get a prayer book which contains his name.

The funeral of the late J. C. Miller was postponed until 2 P. M. to-day, awaiting friends from California who will arrive this morning.

Thomas C. Seward, a native of Great Britain, filed his declaration of intention of becoming a citizen in the office of the county clerk yesterday.

Jerry Buckley, a prisoner in the city jail, disrobed himself yesterday and cast his clothes into a fire. He will be examined to-day as to his sanity.

Judge Shattuck has accepted an invitation to deliver an address before the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, at the annual meeting to be held on the 22d of this month.

The state convention of Rebekah degree lodges, I. O. O. F., of Oregon will meet in Odd Fellows' hall at 2 P. M. to-day. Many of the delegates arrived yesterday.

Parties are already forming for the Caledonian excursion to the Cascades on decoration day and if the weather is fine there is sure to be a large turn out of business folks.

The daily output of the Portland Reduction Works, which was incorrectly stated in a paragraph yesterday, is 147 bars of bullion weighing ninety-one pounds each—over 13,000 pounds.

A Warm Spring Indian called Pooster has been placed in the county jail to await trial on a charge of criminal assault. The trial will take place on the arrival of the witnesses, who have been summoned.

Judge Stearns will announce decisions this morning in the following cases: H. B. Miller vs. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., on demurrer, and in reassignment of M. J. Davison on objections to final report.

The democratic county committee did not meet yesterday, as was expected, to nominate a state senator, vice J. H. Steffen, declined. A meeting for the purpose will be held to-morrow night, at 7:30.

The heavy corrugated iron floor of the draw span of the railroad bridge is all laid, and the traveling erector is now being put up, and the work of putting up the superstructure will be commenced in a day or two.

About 10 o'clock last night a house at St. John, occupied by fifteen Chinese, was set on fire by the explosion of a lamp and totally burned. The church bell was rung and the citizens turned out; but the fire had got such headway that with the means at hand it could not be subdued.

An old resident had occasion to go out E street to Twenty-first on Sunday and could hardly realize that at this point Johnson, the butcher, at one time killed beeves for his shops. The changes in all directions are simply wonderful, and an occasional stroll will convince the most skeptical.

The second trial of the suit of A. B. Manley vs. C. Hofstetter and H. Claussenius, for $3000 damages for alleged false and malicious arrest, will begin in Judge Shattuck's court this morning. In the first trial the jury gave Manley a verdict for $1. Subsequently Judge Shattuck granted plaintiff's application for a new trial.

The carpenters have about completed the work on the north addition and now the kalsominers will begin to throw on a liberal supply of white wash inside. Superintendent Whiting says the list of enquiries as to entries, etc., is quite large this early in the season. The tenth annual fair promises to excel previous exhibits.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Committee Appointed to Solicit Funds for Goldendale Sufferers.

Communications From Various Sources Asking the Board's Co-operation—Traffic in Sailors Reported on—Revenue Marine—Etc.

A regular meeting of the board of trade was held last evening President Donald Macleay in the chair and a large number of members present. Matters of much interest to the commercial welfare of Oregon came up and were disposed of They are detailed below The matter of raising money for the relief of sufferers by the Goldendale fire was presented and the board will act promptly An appropriation of $300 for the commissioner to Melbourne was timely

AID FOR GOLDENDALE

Mr Dodd laid before the board a statement of the disastrous fire at Goldendale, and stated that some thirty five families were destitute and suffering They must be relieved The only question was whether it was the duty of the board or of the citizens generally

President Macleay said "Portland has not only assisted the people of our own state but has sent money to Germany, and to Vancouver and other places in times of distress and we will most assuredly not let our own people suffer"

On motion it was directed that a committee of four be appointed to solicit subscriptions for the relief of the people of Goldendale President Macleay said he would appoint the committee to day

NEW MEMBERS

Mr George S Beattie was proposed for membership

The committee on membership having reported favorably on the following named persons they were duly elected members of the board

Williams & Wood, Whalley, Bronaugh & Northup Dolph Bellinger Mallory & Simon A L Maxwell W F McCaw S Harris & Co, Charles B Duhrkoop Cook & Kiernan, Lownsdale & Molson

TO ENCOURAGE AMERICAN SHIPPING

A communication was received from Senator J N Dolph acknowledging the receipt of resolutions concerning the bill for the encouragement of American shipping and expressing himself as in favor of government aid to secure a restoration of our carrying trade upon the high seas

Also from Senator Mitchell and Representative Hermann in regard to the same matter, stating that the resolutions had been presented to the senate and referred to the appropriation committee, filed

FOR A PERMANENT EXHIBITION

A letter was read from the International Perpetual Exposition Company of Chicago, asking the co-operation of the board in their enterprise, which is to establish and maintain a perpetual exposition of the products, resources, minerals, manufactures, etc, of the different states of the United States and foreign countries.

Mr Dodd said that the idea was a good one, but he did not see how we could help them If they were established we could send them some exhibits now of lumber, etc, which would benefit the state The matter was finally referred to a committee consisting of Messrs Dodd, Goldsmith and Kapus

OPPOSED TO BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

A letter was received from Woodward Wright & Co, of New Orleans, asking concerted action of the board in opposition to the passage of a bill now before congress for the establishment of a board of public works

It was stated that the object of the bill was to take the work of river and harbor improvements out of the hands of the United States engineers After some discussion in which the United States engineers were highly complimented, the board expressed itself as unanimously opposed to the passage of the bill

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN INCONSISTENT

A communication was received from David Talmage & Sons of Charleston and New Orleans inclosing a recommendation which they ask be signed and sent to the congressional delegation from Oregon asking that the duties on foreign rice be lowered to ½ cent per pound or 15 per cent ad valorem, and that uncleaned rice be placed on the free list

Mr Macleay said he favored the proposition Rice was admitted from the Sandwich Islands free but from every other place it paid a duty Talmage & Sons are a large firm in the rice-growing region but in favor of free rice

Mr Goldsmith thought that as the board had asked that the duties on lead, lumber and wool be not reduced, it would place itself in a rather questionable predicament by endorsing the above After some discussion they decided not to co-operate with Talmage & Sons in the matter

APPROPRIATION OF $300 FOR MELBOURNE

Mr Dodd read a circular letter from Mr Frank McCoppin, chief commissioner to the Melbourne exposition and in view of the small remuneration of commissioners and the large expense they must incur, moved that the board contribute $300 toward the expenses of Mr T B Merry, commissioner from Oregon

After some discussion and Mr Merry addressing the board the motion passed unanimously Mr Merry stated his intention of publishing a paper at the exposition in the interest of this coast

AN ENDORSEMENT

Mr J B Chapman of North Yakima asked recognition from the board as an agent of the North Yakima and Salmon River Road Company He stated that he wished to secure subscriptions to the stock of the company here in order to complete the road

Several members certified to the integrity of Mr Chapman and on motion he was indorsed by the board Adjourned

THE SAILOR THIEVING GRIEVANCE

AMPLE LAWS NOW ON THE STATUTE BOOKS—ENFORCEMENT NEEDED

To the President and Members of the Portland Board of Trade Dear Sir and Gentlemen—As a member of the committee appointed to investigate the matter, known as the sailor thieving grievance practiced here and at Astoria, and to report thereon I beg to submit the following for your consideration

I found after full inquiry, while on a visit to Astoria, that this question was of greater magnitude than I had believed it to be and as I think the following statement will bear out In round numbers, I may state that we have about 150 vessels entering and leaving the Columbia river principally grain laden outward—that these vessels are manned by about three thousand seamen and apprentices

A very good authority at Astoria places the number of men who desert from these vessels at fully 5 per cent of the total

Higher wages seems to be the principal inducement which causes the desertion of the crews but various parties contribute largely to it The principal actors of course are the sailor boarding house keepers There is no doubt that men who follow the business of boarding sailors go on board ships and entice men ashore In fact I conversed with several who tacitly admitted that they did so

The explanation is, that whereas a number of the deserters find their way into the interior there is continually a shortage of sailors so it is not unfrequent that men have to be brought from the Sound to fill crews in this river Vessels when loaded must go to sea and as every ship master is anxious to be on his voyage and as he has no knowledge of where to pick up a crew he is compelled to employ a middle man—the shipping master—who of course has a stipulated fee for procuring the crew and who makes himself personally responsible for the advances

Since the passage of the Dingly shipping bill no seaman shipping on board a vessel within the jurisdiction of the United States, can be charged with more than $40 advances and whereas the sailor who deserts from his vessel here either has little clothing or leaves what he has behind it is claimed by the boarding house master that $40 is frequently too little to keep him on shore for a while and to fit him out for another voyage It is also claimed that a number desert from the boarding house and so, also leave a debt behind This brings us to the question of what is termed "blood money" Forty dollars not being considered sufficient to liquidate the sailor's indebtedness and leave a profit, an additional $40 is charged to the ship

It appears that during the present shipping season the boarding house keepers formed a "sailors trust" and thereby getting into harmonious working condition, determined to make all the profit they could Until this "trust" was formed $15 per man was returned to the captain by the shipping masters as "blood money" I am informed that during eighteen months prior to entering into the present arrangement, something like fifty thousand dollars was given to shipmasters. Nor is this all, cases could be cited, it is claimed, where shipmasters have actually made arrangements with boarding house masters and received payment for getting their crews taken out of their vessels

I have, of course, no means of knowing what disposition the captains made of this rebate but I desire to point out to this board the demoralizing effect that a course so reprehensible must have on all parties to the bargain

Regarding the recent outrage on the ship "Lucipera," I find that the majority of the crew might have easily been taken on board the ship It is true there were warrants granted for the arrest of several of the men who were on the articles of that ship These men were lawfully shipped before a duly qualified officer, and I am of the opinion that had the captain taken these men on board of his ship and called on the civil authorities at Astoria, he would have been duly protected

As to doing away with the system of crimping, I am of the opinion that it cannot be done, and as to devising means for abating the nuisance I think this board requires the co-operation of the shipowners and the ship masters who do business at this port

In my opinion the existing laws regulating the practice of shipping seamen are amply sufficient. What is wanted is a strict enforcement of these laws and this board should see to it that shipowners are informed of the proper status of this evil Very respectfully GEO POPE

FOR REVENUE MARINE SERVICE

RESOLUTION URGING THIS PROTECTION FOR THE NORTHWEST COAST

Mr O F Paxton introduced the following resolution which was adopted

WHEREAS Congress has under consideration a bill providing for the appropriation of money to defray the expenses of the revenue marine services of the United States for the ensuing fiscal year and,

WHEREAS This board believes the revenue marine to be a useful and necessary branch of the government service and to be economically managed and efficient in the discharge of its duties, and

WHEREAS The Columbia river, notwithstanding its large shipping and commercial interests and the magnitude and importance of its commerce, is by reason of the abandonment of the artillery stations at its mouth and the withdrawal of the troops therefrom, in a defenseless and unprotected condition and,

WHEREAS The revenue vessels stationed on the coast are the only means of defense and the only protection to the commerce of the Northwest and

WHEREAS Some of said vessels are greatly in need of repairs to put them in proper condition to do the work required therefore be it

Resolved That in the opinion of the Portland board of trade of Portland Oregon the maintenance of the revenue marine service in the North west in a high state of efficiency is essential to the security and to the development of our commercial interests and be it further

Resolved, That our senators and representatives in congress be requested to urge the passage of said bill providing for the support of said service and the appropriation of money sufficient properly to maintain the same and that the secretary of this board transmit to each of said senators and representatives a copy of this resolution under his hand and the seal of the board

THE NICARAGUA CANAL

RESOLUTIONS URGING CONGRESS TO PASS THE INCORPORATION BILL

Mr James Steel introduced the following resolutions,

WHEREAS, A bill for the incorporation of the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua has been passed by the senate of the United States and is now pending in the house of representatives, and

WHEREAS, The Nicaragua interoceanic canal will be of great benefit to the producers and merchants of the Pacific coast, as well as of great commercial and political advantage to our country therefore be it

Resolved by the by board of trade of Portland, Oregon, That we do earnestly urge upon the honorable house of representatives of the United States the importance of early and favorable action upon said bill

Resolved, That we do hereby respectfully call upon our representative in congress, the Hon Binger Hermann, for his aid in carrying into effect the object of these resolutions.

ORGANIZED LABOR MEETING.

New Delegates—Celebration of Labor Day—Full Attendance and Interesting Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Federated Trades Assembly was held last night at Danish Aid Society hall, T F Mahon in the chair, Hamilton Platt secretary

The credentials of the following named persons were received, and on motion were admitted to membership G C Kissel vice Angus Sutherland Plasters' Union, H D Jones, Carpenters' Union Peter Moore vice L Browere, Bakers' Union, and Peter Donnelly, vice Joseph Keith, Painters' Union

The Bakers' Union made a report that there was but one establishment in the city that was willing to grant the demand of the union that its members receive pay in lieu of board, that their average wages is $50 per month and board that they be allowed a fair equivalent instead of board which would make their wages about $2 25 per day The Bakers' Union was instructed to call an open meeting and the Federated Trades Assembly will attend in a body and assist the bakers to overcome the grievance

The committee of the federated trades on the grievance of the painters' union reported satisfactory progress A letter was read from Mayor DeLashmutt to Frank C Baker, who was a member of the committee Mayor DeLashmutt said I have never changed my mind in regard to organized labor, and I feel proud of my affiliation with the printers' union and in all honest efforts to elevate the positions of the honest and sober working man, whereby he may be enabled to be a useful member of society and support and educate his family, I most heartily concur" A committee was appointed to wait on Mr DeLashmutt to get permission to publish the letter in full The assembly also tendered a vote of thanks for his trades-union sympathy, and that he has their hearty support in his duties as mayor

The following committee of arrangements on the celebration of Labor day was appointed Cornell Shaw Barrett McKee, Kocher and Goetz The committee will meet next Sunday at Danish Aid Society hall at 1 o clock P M to complete all arrangements for order of procession (in the evening) music hall and speakers All unions outside of the federation are requested to meet the committee, so as to be assigned places in the line and seats in the hall It is expected that every organization of labor will join in the celebration A special invitation was extended to Gov Pennoyer Mayor DeLashmutt and the common council to be present The exercises will be in the evening, either at the courthouse, plaza or Masonic hall, as the committee may designate and the weather permit The governor and mayor will be invited to address the meeting Also each union affiliated in the assembly will furnish a speaker, suitable resolutions presented for adoption music, etc

Mr Barrett stated the stonemasons were granted the nine-hour schedule and that the stonecutters' unions and the stonemasons' union have reached a settlement as to the lines separating the work of the respective organizations

Mr Kocher stated that the ironroofers were granted the nine-hour schedule by their employers These announcements were received with applause as all the building trades are now working on the nine-hour schedule

Adjourned to meet next Monday night at 8 o clock being a special meeting

BALL PLAYERS ENTERTAINED

A SPREAD TO THE WILLAMETTE CLUB BY THEIR FRIENDS

The victorious Willamette Baseball Club came back from Seattle yesterday, and their friends made preparations to do them honor on their return by giving them an oyster supper at the Campy restaurant last night At 8 the members of the club and their friends sat down to the long table that was loaded with the many good things that had been provided especially for the occasion Everything looked tempting and the boys must have felt that they were being well honored by their friends Oysters in every style desired were supplied Then came something" that was pasted on the top

The toast was proposed by L H Wells "The Willamette Baseball Club may it ever prosper and be victorious at home and abroad"

This was responded to by Mr Thomas Turnbull He said I have known the members of the Willamette base ball club since they were very young seen them grow up, know there is good stuff in them Gentlemen to be a good athlete you must cultivate the head and heart as well as the muscle I hope you will all be sober and moral men, and that you will reflect credit on the name Willamette on every diamond field at home and abroad"

J W Beveridge was called on and said 'I thank the kind friends who have provided this entertainment for our benefit We appreciate the honor confered and will endeavor to merit a continuance of your esteem I wish to speak a word about our treatment in Seattle It could not have been better We were treated royally by the citizens and the members of the Seattle club I hope when the club comes to East Portland, they will receive the same cordial treatment we received during our stay in Seattle"

L H Wells spoke in behalf of the press Gentlemen you have done well and achieved victory on a hard fought field You have also reflected credit on East Portland by your sober course while abroad I think a man can play baseball and be a sober and upright man and such I believe you all to be May you always be successful on the diamond, and remember the advice our friend Turnbull gave us—to be a good athlete you must be sober and moral

There were in attendance including the club and their friends, about twenty five

THE SAME MAN

Last January when the snow was on the ground a sensation was caused by a man falling insensible in the streets of East Portland. He was carried into Logan's drug store and Dr Flinn attended him He stated at that time he was from Cleveland Ohio, and that his wife had deserted him taking their only child with them He followed them to Portland where he was told they had gone to San Francisco, but he failed to find any trace of them there and came back up here, wandering about East Portland when he fell insensible He gave his name as Wm Smith He was taken to the hospital in Portland That was the last heard of him until a dispatch was published in THE OREGONIAN giving an account of the suicide of a man in the What Cheer house in San Francisco From the description given Dr Flinn thinks he was the same man who fell in the street insensible The facts are given in the hopes they may help determine the man's identity

A LOUD COMPLAINT

A loud complaint comes from the business houses along L street from Water to First street Every day L street is filled with hacks from an hour to an hour and a half While these hacks are there the street is almost completely obstructed, and it is impossible to get to the business houses from the street The other day a wagon containing fish came over from Portland to leave some fish at the market on L street, but was unable to get to the market on account of the great number of hacks along the street When asked to make room so that the fish could be unloaded the hack drivers were insolent and insulting and would not move an inch The hacks are there sometimes an hour before the trains come in and the street is always left in a fearful condition This is every day and the complaint is entirely just and reasonable It is hard to say how to remedy the annoyance unless some action should be taken to have the hacks remain on Water and N streets

LABOR UNION

The different committees of the union labor party held an adjourned meeting Saturday night Two reports were submitted, one in favor of an out and out independent ticket, the other in favor of making up a ticket from the tickets now in the field Both propositions were discussed at length by several of the members present without arriving at any definite conclusion when an adjournment was had to the latter part of the week A conclusion will then be reached and the work of making up a ticket will be proceeded with A full fledged union labor ticket will be in the field before next Sunday

NOTES

Rev John Sellwood and family who left for the Sandwich Islands by way of San Francisco, were heard from just as they started for Hilo on the brig Lurline All the family were well and in the very best of spirits

Dr S Smith who was so badly injured by being thrown from his buggy some time ago on J street is able to be around on his crutches but is yet very feeble his injuries are much more serious than was at first supposed.

CUPIDITY AND CURIOSITY

Scenes at an "Old Horse" Sale—Buyers Afraid to Open Their Purchases

One peculiar characteristic of human nature is that the element of doubt and uncertainty always acts as a stimulus to curiosity This trait, so inseparable to human nature, is to be observed in many of the ordinary relations of life Hence the strong tendency toward engaging in lottery speculation and all sorts of gaming, wagering etc, down even to the simple transaction of "purchasing a pig in a poke" Chance, in the abstract, possesses an almost irresistible fascination to man woman and child Men love to bet for instance on the outcome of an election young ladies to buy tickets for the church raffle and even the ragged urchin delights to swap sight unseen from a Barlow knife to a Jewsharp

'Old horse sales are occasions on which this propensity to deal in the matter of chance—a sort of commercial 'catch as catch-can' transaction—rises to the surface Readers will remember the sales of unclaimed packages by the express company in this city in times past also the great struggle among the crowds the excitement the curiosity and lastly the fun

Yesterday afternoon there was an ancient horse auction sale at the Quimby house of a huge pile of unreclaimed, unredeemed baggage which had been stored at the hotel for the past year The assortment ranged from a small hand valise up to the ponderous Saratoga trunk These receptacles, though not hermetically sealed were closed to human view so that purchasers had not the slightest clue as to what the contents were There were, however, strong suggestions of an endless assortment of female wardrobe of blankets hosiery hats caps boots shoes cuffs collars etc but nothing could be determined of the contents but the merest conjecture based on the external appearance of the article purchased

Two o clock was the hour fixed for the sale to commence A large promiscuous and curious crowd assembled in front of the hotel prior to the sale A B Richardson, the non consumptive knight of the hammer acted as master of ceremonies and for more than an hour his far reaching and sonorous tones woke the sleeping echoes for the area of several blocks There was lots of fun Richardson is a very big man and he is a bigger joker The way he perspired in the sweltering heat, mopped his classic brow with a bandana, shouted in his blandest tones and cracked his ghastliest jokes was a caution The crowd was good natured and hugely enjoyed the sport Over 100 separate pieces of baggage were sold and the knocking down proceeded lively Prices ranged from a 5 cent nickle up to $7 Several collapsed and ruptured old leathern valises from which protruded soiled linen unlaundried socks, stained cuffs, and sometimes queer looking rags were sold for from 10 to 15 cents each Every one was the text for a sally of wit on the part of the auctioneer, or a laughable remark from the crowd

From one badly jammed weather stained and travel worn old trunk a suspicious looking garment protruded which, on inspection Richardson genially declared while stroking his beard and winking to be a Mother Hubbard' And so with much sweating elbowing loud talking and a medley of jokes and chaffing the baggage was all sold out and the crowd dispersed each purchaser carting away the prize package" of which he had become the owner Not one of the buyers had the courage to open what he had bought though there was no end of challenges

REMARKS ABOUT O. & C. FREIGHT.

What an Observant Man Noticed on a Slow Train From Salem

A passenger who missed the regular train at Salem a few days ago waited for the irregular freight, due early in the morning but only arrived at Salem in the middle of the afternoon It came swinging in with thirty loaded cars and a comfortable caboose The passenger got aboard and became interested in the freighting business to pass away the time Some cars were marked powder, and the conductor informed him that there were four or five full cars in the train bound for Butte, Montana That same Butte is a good customer of California for there was in the long string of cars one filled with cabbages and another with oranges, bound for the great mining emporium of Montana Three car loads of wheat stopped at Salem and the conductor informed him that there was a greater movement of wheat of late than at any time since last fall Farmers evidently need money and so sell their surplus Several cars are loaded with beef cattle on their way to the Portland shambles Two more cars containing eighty seven head of yearlings were waiting on the Salem side track but the train came too late to connect with the O R & N evening freight, so these were left behind until another day Dan Delany an old citizen of Marion, had returned after ten years' absence, and bought these youngsters to stock his ranch on the Tukannon fifteen miles north of Dayton and twelve miles below Marengo He gave from $7 to $11 a head for them and the whole lot averaged $9 each This puts yearlings at rather a low figure for cash

A journey on a freight train is rather a monotonous affair The rate of speed is limited and the stops to a man in a hurry seem entirely unlimited There is a little something from everywhere to be handled in the way freight list There are many full cars for instance, F H Page has two cars of oats from Gervais and one of oranges from Colton Consignments of wheat and flour are several Dunbar also has oranges from Colton Three great cars are full of grain bags for the growing wheat crop One car is loaded with canned salmon from San Francisco for Butte Montana which is carrying coals a long way past Newcastle It would seem as if all the salmon in the Columbia would whistle at this car as it goes by There are seven waycars in the train, full of country products Some cars are sealed with the customs label, bound for St Paul in bond There is a great change in the travel and traffic on the O & C since the line was completed The business done confirms the remark made by Superintendent Brandt three years ago, that when the line should be completed its business would be great as it now is

REAL ESTATE NOTES

A Southern General Wants to Buy Here—Large Transaction

The Evening Telegram is authority for the statement that a dispatch has been received here from Gen P T Beauregard, of New Orleans authorizing the purchase of certain real estate in East Portland

In 1868 Mrs Eunice J Price bought forty five acres of land in the Prettyman donation land claim for $1800, from which she has had a steady income ever since Recently she disposed of thirty five acres of the land to G W Brown, the contractor for $23 000

The statement is made that a contract has just been closed and preliminary papers passed for the sale of forty acres of land which is situated south of the old Asylum road not far from the new suburb of Sunnyside to which the extension of the Willamette Iron Bridge Railway Company is building a line The price paid is $30 000 and considering the prospect of the locality and the fact that the owners of Sunnyside paid $1000 an acre for their tract this tile must be regarded as a good bargain for the purchasers

A SAFE LANTERN

Very Simple Arrangement Which Will Produce Light and Avoid Danger

Several days ago THE OREGONIAN published a letter from Joseph Silver of Rainier inquiring how to make a light which gave out no heat to be used in mines etc to avoid danger of explosion Mr H C Hale of Portland answering the inquiry writes to this paper as follows

Some years ago I read a description of a light which I think is the one Mr Silvers is after Take a small bottle with a large mouth and put into it a lump of phosphorus about the size of a pea, or larger according to the size of the bottle Then fill the bottle about three-quarters full of pure olive oil and cork it This will produce a mild safe light and no heat If in a few moments the light becomes dim uncork the bottle and allow a fresh supply of air to enter, and then recork This would be very good for some kinds of work such as examining hives of bees, powder magazines, etc.

AGRICULTURAL MATTERS.

Topics of Timely Interest for Northwestern Readers.

The Curled Leaf on Peach Trees—The Talk that the "Farm Don't Pay"—Value of Pumpkins —Good Butter—Draft Horses—Etc, Etc

The curled leaf seems to be peculiar to peaches in all parts of the country west of the Rocky mountains Some years it is very bad in California, and others not very bad or not amounting to an injury It prevails also at Salt Lake Utah, and they have a remedy there that proves efficacious 'They dig the soil from the roots of the tree take a knife and score right up into the branches They say it retards the flow of the sap so that the curled leaf don t take any hold on the tree They do that when they find the tree is commencing to curl and it stops it at once

The curl leaf is bad in Oregon the present year The discussion of this subject by the California Horticultural Society called out many facts and opinions the foregoing as to the curled leaf on the peach at Salt Lake included There, as here they consider it to be due to atmospheric causes The cold nights and warm days are too great a vicissitude for the peach to undergo It is not considered a fungus growth but a blight caused by cold spring weather Excessive moisture in the atmosphere is considered the cause by some

Judge A F Watt near Canby has given his experience to the public for about six years and without fail he has succeeded in growing good peaches abundantly all that time His plan is to set four stakes around each tree and lash or nail four side pieces of poles at the top Across this frame he lays branches of fir or anything to make shelter The tree merely has a canopy of boughs over it this is built as it goes into bloom and remains until the fruit is well formed and the tree in leaf It permits the rain to pass through but protects the tree from frost and dews and too much sunshine It is simply a protection from frost and sunshine and for all these years he has not had the curled leaf and has had good crops of peaches Such a remedy is possible when a man has a few trees and time to attend to them, but not possible in large orchards

Perhaps a reason for the curl in the leaf may be adduced from this experience The curl leaf comes where trees are subject to frosts and sunshine and when protected from these influences does not occur It follows then that rain does not cause it, because all the rain goes through the covering branches Moisture too is not the cause of the curled leaf, but frost or sunshine may be, and indeed must be one or both the causes of the curled leaf in the peach on this coast

Seedling peaches show the curled leaf excessively as nearly all the leaves are fearfully distorted, but a few seedlings are not much troubled with it

In an orchard where there are hundreds of choice peach trees one or two years old and quite a number of seedlings and a few of each that are much older and of good size the difference between the budded and the seedling trees is apparent in the looks of the leaf While the cultivated varieties are very healthy and have a beautiful and bright gold and-green color, the seedling trees are distorted and look as if undergoing a deadly blight Some of the improved varieties are curled on the old wood, but the young growth has a perfect leaf and is of a good color

It is evident that some improved varities are well worth cultivating and are clear of blight while others suffer more or less If we could make use of some remedy for this curl we should be able to grow peaches in great perfection in Western Oregon Experienced fruit-growers, who are aware of the varieties of peaches that do not blight or have curled leaves would confer a favor on the public by giving such facts as come to their knowledge on this rather important subject

THE FARM DON T PAY'

The Breeders' Gazette tells of a farmer who offered his farm for $16 000, and wishes to sell because 'the farm don t pay That journal goes on to argue the evils that would befall the man if he could find a customer even at his own price The situation is so exactly that of many in Oregon who claim to be making nothing from the farm that THE OREGONIAN will recall the argument of the Gazette for the good of home readers

It supposes that he realizes $16 000 and loans his money at 7 per cent which will bring him $1120 Deduct $200 for taxes and his income will be $920 If he lives in town he must pay at least $20 a month rent which leaves him only $680 to live on and support a family If he has to support a doctor's bill besides he will hardly come out even

The fact is that men who have a farm never or seldom realize all the farm does for them There are not many farms for sale in Oregon worth over $10 000 and if those who complain should sell for that much they will not have over $800 income at 8 per cent and with $200 taxes to pay would be reduced to $600 a year to pay rent and live on and school the family If the man with a farm worth $3000 to $5000 will compare his circumstances with the capitalist' who has $10 000 at interest he will find no cause for repining The moment a farmer improves his homestead so that he has a pasture a wheat field and other land broken a garden made and an orchard bearing all of which can be done by a good worker in three years he can begin to live like a prince The garden brings all vegetables in their season, and all the small fruits as well To be able to go out and pick strawberries blackberries and raspberries is a pleasure and they come fresh and ripe The city man buys them at the market price—if he can spare the money The chickens the bee hives the orchard—all these furnish money's worth to them and he lives bountifully on the products of the soil

When a farmer complains it is actually at himself for in this land he has many advantages over the farmers of the Mississippi valley If they succeed he should succeed easier and better and there is only himself to blame for failure The farmer who adds a cow to the privileges enumerated above certainly can live well His own labor earns his living and improves the homestead that had no actual value when he took it and makes the quarter section worth $5000 All the while by good management it becomes more and more valuable and earns him a better income He plants an orchard for commercial purposes and in time grows fruit grain sheep, hogs cattle and horses and has a constant income that makes him a very independent man These results follow activity and energy and not otherwise If he is a failure his farming will fail If he is a human success the farm he manages will be an agricultural success The trouble always is with the man if Oregon land won t produce Many times people grumble when they have more benefits at command than a small fortune will furnish in town Contentment is much and able-bodied labor is more good management counts heavily in success and the farm, with all its possibilities improved is a source of prosperity that cannot be lightly undervalued Make the farm what it can be and should be and it will in turn make you comfortable down to a mature and happy old age

ORCHARD WORK FOR MAY

Orchardists certainly have all possible inducement to make the best of their good fortune the present year We have a monopoly of many fruits because we grow them in greater perfection than they are grown elsewhere California suffers from drouth that has cut short all crops and their fruit can not have the excellency it usually has or grow with the abundance There is a great region to supply and Oregon is booked to supply it with all the fruits that thrive here The opportunity is worth improving and no pains should be spared to secure good fruit The codlin moth can be prevented by using a solution of London purple and a spraying pump but the time is too late now to do this What the fruit grower can do is scrape the trees of rough bark and leave no place for worms to hide then put paper bands or sacking bands around the trees for them to hide in These bands must be examined every week and the worms or cocoons found there killed Elsewhere there has been published a description of fungus growths on fruit, leaves and branches of fruit trees and a specific for preventing and curing this blight. Many apples and pears are ruined by this fungus growth and to use this remedy—if it can do what is promised of it—will save many thousands of dollars worth of fruit These means must be used to secure good results and by using them the fruit-grower will gain experience for future work as well as save valuable fruit. There are pear trees in town gardens that can be saved, where the the fruit is nearly all ruined by the codlin moth and this fungus blight. If both can be avoided the means should be used to do it.

Another matter of importance is to thin fruit when too much grows on a tree Too much fruit weakens the tree and the fruit is of no value when crowded and small The tree is weakened by ripening too many seeds The pulp of fruit is not so much a tax on the tree as is the pit or seed These contain the life principle the power of reproduction and to ripen and perfect them is more of a tax on the powers of a tree, by far than to grow the pulp that makes the fruit It is then very important to thin the fruit to secure fruit of large size and superior flavor Size governs the price of fruit and as the customer wants to pay well for his preference the producer should furnish what he wants Now and for a month to come will be the time to thin fruit and do work that will insure large fruit of good flavor

VALUE OF PUMPKINS

Many farmers grow the old fashioned yellow pumpkins for feed to their cows, and the practice of many is to remove the seeds A reader of THE OREGONIAN asks if this is necessary or is it merely one of the old wives fables that have been handed down from generations gone There is no question as to the value of pumpkins for use, and it figures on the tables of mankind as well as in the mangers and feed troughs of domestic animals An old lady in Linn county, who has had many years experience in farm life says positively that to feed the seeds is very unwholesome to cows She positively knows that the effect is to make the milk watery and to gradually dry up the cows that eat them though eating the meat of the pumpkin brings rich milk This is the opinion of many practical farmers and always has been It is also the finding of the highest scientific authority that the seeds should be removed After giving the various uses of this vegetable Appleton's American Cyclopedia says It is mainly for feeding farm animals for which purpose the seed must be removed as they have a serious diuretic effect which is especially undesirable for milking cows That they increase the flow of urine to an unnatural degree, is no doubt the cause which created the old time prejudice In medical practice the seeds of pumpkins are highly valued for removing tape worms so they must have active properties It is plain enough that the seeds of pumpkins have very strong medicinal qualities and can do great harm to milk cows That they cause cows to lose in flow of milk is a common belief and every prudent man will remove the seeds when he knows the result of feeding them to his cows

GOOD BUTTER

It is evident that good butter can be made in different ways and possess different characteristics, and yet please customers who are extremely fastidious An incident at hand illustrates this axiom in the dairy line Two farmers came to the same store a few days ago and left their butter for sale While each lot was pronounced good, opinions differed so much that the two farmers were brought in to give their experience and defend their methods of dairy work Each one claimed that his butter was the best, so it was reduced to a practical test, and each man gave his views and his methods

No 1 showed that his butter was very clear of all else but butter, and was very 'tough and waxy in appearance He claimed, triumphantly that his butter was the clear granules unbroken and pure, with no trace of foreign substances So it was hard and when cut part way would break off This was accomplished by three separate workings and then it was immediately brought to market

No 2 showed that his butter was made in the same way as his competitor's In each case the milk was put in deep pans and set in clear and cold water In all respects they followed a similar process until after the churning when it was taken out and worked once Then it laid by for three days and was brought to market as good as it possibly could be There was a great discussion over this butter making problem but the criticisms all ended in asserting that both were perfect or nearly so and certainly were palatable and the question as to which was the best was not decided Evidently all the foreign substances had not been worked out of No 2 but it may have retained a softer texture and a fresher and daintier flavor for not having been worked over and over until it was tough and brittle to taste and touch

NORMANDY BUTTER

Normandy in Northern France, has a fame for butter making and its finest butter finds a market at fancy prices in England Some facts concerning the methods pursued will be of interest The building for the dairy always has a milk room and a working room Round part of the milk room runs a trough two feet deep and as broad along which runs a current of cold water This equalizes the temperature of the room and reduces that of the new milk Cows are sometimes milked three times a day, and it is poured into deep earthenware pails or jars, which are set in the water Some of the best dairies skim the milk when it has stood twelve hours which decreases the total yield of butter somewhat but the butter made from this first skimming is very excellent and has a delicate flavor that makes up for any loss of aggregate In other dairies the cream sours and is not taken off until the milk has turned They believe that this practice gives a larger yield of butter and a fuller flavor that suits many customers This butter keeps the best if it is thoroughly well made

Cream is churned two or three times a week to suit the markets held near by They generally use the Norman barrel churn, and the motion is four horse power save when water or steam in convenient. The churn is half filled at a temperature of about 57 to 59 degrees The butter comes in about forty minutes As soon as small granules show the churn is stopped importance being attached to stopping exactly as butter is formed To churn into a lump is considered bad management After the butter has come the buttermilk is run out from an opening in the bottom fitted with a seive When nearly all is out fresh spring water is filled half full in the churn three or four turns given the dasher and the water and milk again drawn off This is repeated several times, until the water comes from the churn clear Salt is mixed with the butter in the form of brine and it is salted with the greatest nicety by carefully washing after the brining process, so modifying the strength of salt to the required taste When taken from the churn the butter is only worked to consolidate it and press out the clear water

DRAFT HORSES

This is the season when farmers find their brood mares with foal or breed them again to such stock as they fancy Our state is blessed with running stock trotting stock and all sorts of work animals The horse of all work is the one the farmer should fancy, and the best draft stallion he can find is apt to bring a colt that will pass under that title Many a farmer can have a pair of solid mares that will do all his work and bring him a pair of colts every year In this way he can in four years have a span of horses for sale and if he breaks them to work he has an income of $200 to $300 from that source always supposing that he doesn't lose a colt or the mare If prudent care is taken horses do not often die and colts become horses in due time as regularly as other things happen

The draft horse comes nearer to being a safe investment than any other from a common mare The range horseman keeps a Norman Percheron Clydesdale or English draft stallion for his rough mares and they impart size bone and muscle and sometimes give style and form that makes the increase more valuable than the mother The demand for heavy draft will be greater in this region for years to come because new comers will have to buy teams the growing towns will need dray and truck horses, the logging camps will have to purchase and so will mining mines that have ores to haul All these things are increasing on this coast If you breed for good draft you may possibly get a roadster that will go in a city hack or in a private carriage You certainly will have something that can pull a street car and soon thousands of horses will have to be annually bought for city railways The street car is only beginning to run and so is it with city team horses A great and fast growing trade is springing up on this north coast that is as yet only in its infancy

Two Gloucester fishing schooners have [illegible] Puget sound and a third is north of San Francisco. The Mollie Adams arrived [illegible] time ago and is doing a good [illegible] business. The Oscar and Hattie reached Port Townsend early this month 144 days from Marblehead. The Edward E. Webster put into San Francisco for provisions and a fresh crew, and has since proceeded. Capt. Johnson, of the Oscar and Hattie, says if these schooners do well this year 50 craft may be expected from the Atlantic side next year, as the fishing business on that coast is very dull.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS — Past forty-eight hours include 16,640 ctls wheat, 2673 sks flour, 1224 ctls oats, 62 ctls bran, 450 ctls middlings, 107 ctls rye, 131 sks flaxseed, 290 sks chopped barley, 25 sks potatoes, 10,300 lbs hides, 74,766 lbs wool, 36 pkgs butter, 219 [illegible], 7 tons hay.

EXPORTS—To San Francisco per str State of California: 10,391 ctls wheat, 800 hf sks flour, 3360 sks bran, 3860 sks shorts, 1549 ctls oats, 10 sks horseradish, 13 rls leather, 31,390 lbs wool, 4 cs cassimeres, 4 cs flannels, 4 bls [illegible], 40 bdls straw paper, 13 bxs butter, [illegible] candy, 400 bars bullion, 346 pkgs [illegible] material, 34 bls pelts, 122 green 40 salt 98 dry hides, 13,705 lbs scrap iron, 30,079 ft lumber, [illegible] treasure.

WHEAT—New York opened ⅛@¼c lower, except for June, showed very little change at noon but closed active and ¾@1¼c higher than on Saturday, the greatest gain being in May wheat. Chicago opened at an advance of ⅛@⅜c, August selling down at [illegible] and the whole line closing 1@1½c higher than on Saturday. The foreign markets were strong and quoted higher, they responding to advices from this country. San Francisco is doing more in buyer year at [illegible] advance. The local market continues [illegible] there is no prospect of early value changes.

OATS—In ample supply, some being shipped to a market that is more than fully provided. Prices are on a rather easy footing although other feed rules high.

POTATOES—Trade runs largely on old stock, which are in full supply. New California [illegible] to hand in increasing quantities.

VEGETABLES—Receipts by steamer [illegible] promptly to-day at old prices for the most part.

EGGS—Receipts free but stocks are not heavy. The market is rather easier at 18c.

THE AMERICAN VISIBLE.

The supply of wheat, in bushels, in sight in the United States, east of the Rockies, one and a year ago, together with the change in the supply for a week, compares as follows:

	1888.	1887.
May 1	31,327,880	46,378,000
May 8	29,271,711	44,458,000
Decrease	2,045,669	1,920,000

BOSTON WOOL REPORT.

Hallowell & Coburn's circular of the 4th inst. says: The demand for wool does not improve to any extent, still manufacturers are obliged to come on the market frequently, owing to the light stocks of raw material they are carrying, and the business of the week may be called fair. Prices are about as satisfactory and unsettled as previously noticed, and, although no materially lower prices are reported this week, the tone of the market is weak and it is not possible to say that bottom has been reached on any grade. The advices from foreign markets have continued firm. At the London auction sales no wool suitable for the American market has been offered, and there is no danger of the Australian wools now here finding competition from the other side. The new clip of the country is opening up slowly. Wool is accumulating at San Francisco and we hear of no important transactions on Boston account. In Texas the season is backward and prices are not fully established. Some sales are being made, but they are not to any extent. The wool continues to prove in good condition and both buyers and sellers are undecided. The local mills and dealers are buying quite freely in Kentucky from farmers' hands at 21 to 24c per pound, but operations on Eastern account at these prices are limited. From other points the news is meager. A large number of buyers left here during the week for the West, and all the large houses will be represented at the different points before many days. More active movements will be the result, but the customary snap and active competition are not anticipated.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The stock market to-day was very dull, except during the first hour, and while the general drift of prices was upward in the forenoon, they reacted later in the day. Trading was more unimportant than on any day during the past month, and outside of a few shares there was no movement of any kind. Closing prices are about equally divided between fractional losses and gains.

Governments were quiet and strong.

SHIPPING NOTES.

Panama advices report the burning at Barranquila on the night of March 27 of the dredge Christopher Columbus, owned by the canal company. She had arrived that morning and raised the Cometa, which had foundered during a squall. The Columbus cost $100,000.

Capt. T. B. Adams has taken command of the ship George F. Manson, vice Capt. Chas. C. Morse, and Capt. J. H. Bennett takes the Alki, vice C. H. Lewis.

The ship Snow & Burgess is 181 days out from New York for San Francisco, and those interested are becoming anxious about her. A San Francisco underwriter is of the opinion that the facts connected with the sinking of the Queen of the Pacific are not such as to warrant a legal claim for contribution in general average; inasmuch as her difficulties had their origin during a tranquil period and are traceable to the negligence of having her port not properly secured. He furnishes a very good line of argument and certainly has decisions to support his idea. "If," says a jurist, "a vessel, after she commences a voyage becomes unfit to prosecute it, and has been exposed to no extraordinary perils of the sea, it is a strong presumption that she was unseaworthy at the time of her departure." Another, Mr. Justice Storey says: "The existence of seaworthiness at the commencement of a voyage is a condition precedent implied by law, and it is positively laid down that extraordinary circumstances must not only be proven, but also that the loss was occasioned thereby."

WALLA WALLA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

At the Saturday meeting of the directors of the Walla Walla Valley Agricultural Society the following special racing events were announced. The Valley Breeders' stakes will be trotted for at the coming meeting of the society. The Futurity stakes speaks for itself. If you are interested and desire entry blanks or further information write to the secretary, Henry Kellogg.

Trotting—The Valley Breeders' Stakes, for yearlings, free to all, $15 each, $75 added; ½-mile heat, two in three; nominations close July 15. Each nomination must be accompanied by $7 50 and a full description of the animal. Second and final payment of $7 50 to be made September 1. Four to enter and three to start.

Trotting—Walla Walla Futurity Stakes, for foals of 1888, free to all, $20 each, $200 added; four payments of $5 each—first to be made with nomination, which closes August 1, 1888; second, January 1, 1889; third, August 1, 1889; fourth, January 1, 1890. The first and second payments and $75 of the added money to be trotted for as yearlings at the 1889 meeting of the Walla Walla Valley Agricultural Society, ½-mile heats, two in three. Third and fourth payments and $125 of added money to be trotted for as two-year-olds at the 1890 meeting of the Walla Walla Valley Agricultural Society, mile heats, two in three.

In the Fourth of July racing under the auspices of the Walla Walla society entries will be limited to valley horses.

Ruddy and Healthy.

Rinsing the mouth with SOZODONT, after cleansing the teeth with it, renders the gums, if flaccid, pale and sensitive, hard, ruddy and strong. Of the beautifying action upon the teeth of this inimitable dentifrice, the world has known for thirty years.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.

Next Year's Session to be Held at Salem—Delegates to the National Convention.

EUGENE CITY, May 3.

The convention accepted the invitation given by the Salem union, to hold the annual meeting at that place next year.

Three delegates were appointed to attend the national convention, to be held in Denver, next October. After a general cleaning up of odds and ends, the sixth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Oregon closed.

EVENING EXERCISES.

This evening was given over to the Young Women's Unions. The superintendent of that department read her annual report. The young women from Salem, Albany, Newburg, Astoria and Eugene were represented on the programme. Solos, quartettes, readings, recitations and papers were so combined as to make the programme a very enjoyable one. A quartette composed of ladies brought down the house. The audience was large and very appreciative. We give below such items from the plan of work as will be of general interest:

As our evangelistic department is the corner-stone of W. C. T. U. work, binding and holding the whole together, we especially urge our unions to use their utmost endeavor in making the efforts of those engaged in this work effectual. And that the unions co-operate in placing in the field a reliable and able gospel temperance worker; that we pledge ourselves to take this speaker and do all we can to make the work effective and self-sustaining.

That we are gratified with the progress made in the establishing of the Industrial Home in Portland and we earnestly recommend our local unions to devise ways and means for its support and also to remember it in prayer to Him who has said: "For ye have the poor with you always and whensoever ye will, ye may do them good."

WHEREAS, It is the duty of the White Ribbon women of the state of Oregon to acquaint themselves with the arguments which compel our leaders to work for franchise; therefore, we recommend that the superintendent of literature be authorized to correspond with the unions and suggest the best literature on the subject and urge its careful consideration. As it is evident, those engaged in the liquor traffic will endeavor to secure the passage of a high license law, at the next session of our legislature, we recommend that our unions circulate petitions asking the legislature to give us statutory prohibition.

As one of the officers of the national union has selected and published a list of books for a course of reading in the local unions, and as our president has suggested that we give special attention to parts of that course, we recommend that during the year our union purchase, read and loan the following books: "Hygiene in the Home," "Our Country," "Science of Politics," "How to Win," "Duties of Women" and "Better Not," by Dr. Vincent, of the Chautauqua movement.

Liver Complaint

Is more surely and speedily cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, than by any other remedy. "I was a great sufferer from liver troubles, and never found anything that gave me permanent relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two years ago. A few bottles of this medicine produced a radical cure.—Wm. E. Baker, 155 W. Brookline st., Boston, Mass.

A Remarkable Cure.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured me of as bad a case of Abscess of the Liver as any human being could be afflicted with and live. I was confined to the house for two years, and, for the last three months of that time, was unable to leave my bed. Four physicians treated me without giving relief, and, in fact, nothing helped me, until I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using a quarter of a bottle of this medicine I began to feel better, and every additional dose seemed to bring new health and strength. I used three bottles, and am now able to attend to my business. I walk to town—one mile distant—and return, without difficulty. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has accomplished all this for me.—W. S. Miner, Carson City, Mich. tf

GOLDENDALE IN ASHES

Fire Sweeps Away the Business Portion of the City.

LOSS TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND.

Every Store, the Courthouse, Two Churches and Two Newspaper Offices Burned—Insurance Light—Many Families Homeless.

Sunday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, fire broke out in Wm. Dixon's livery stable, on Main street, in Goldendale, W. T. It spread to buildings east and west, crossed the street, and destroyed every building in a district two and a half blocks wide and three and one-half blocks long. All the buildings were frame. The telegraph office was destroyed and the first news of the disaster reached Portland through Mr. Sig Sichel, the leading merchant of Goldendale, and the heaviest loser by the fire. He arrived here yesterday morning, and THE OREGONIAN is indebted to him for the following account of the conflagration:

While standing in front of his store at the time mentioned, he discovered flames issuing from the roof of Dixon's stable opposite, and sounded an alarm. He and a few others run out the hook and ladder truck. It happened that nearly all the young men in town had gone to a basket meeting and baptismal services at Golden's mill, eight miles distant, and there were not to exceed fifty men, young and old, left to fight the flames when they broke out. All hands laid hose and manned the two force pumps, which, unfortunately were so close to the stable that the heat was unbearable and the work had to be abandoned. An attempt was then made to tear the stable down, but the flames drove the willing volunteers away.

A light breeze was blowing when the fire broke out, but as the flames gained headway the wind naturally increased and in less than an hour there seemed to be a gale blowing from every point of the compass. The flames spread first to the A. P. Hotaling Company's building, and then swept up and down the north side of Main street. It then crossed to the south side of Main street attacking Sichel's and Cummings & Cram stores and Hess's dwelling back of the stores, and swept up and down the south side, crossing to the court house and to the Presbyterian church.

The fire lasted four hours. When it was apparent that the flames could not be stopped until their food was exhausted, there was a scramble to save effects. A large open space in the west part of town offered a safe place to deposit rescued personal property. Furniture in the lower stories of many dwellings was saved. Farmers in the neighborhood seeing the flames, hurried to render assistance, and did good service with teams. Several men and women fainted from overwork, exhaustion and excitement, and there was some physical suffering. The physicians could do little good, as all the drug stores with their contents were destroyed. A can of whisky was found and this was an excellent substitute, and under the circumstances was almost a godsend.

It is not known whether the county records are damaged or not. There were three safes in the court house; one in the auditor's, one in the treasurer's and one in the probate judge's office, also a vault in the auditor's office. The probabilities are that the records are not destroyed or damaged beyond restoration. The treasurer had a quantity of gold and greenbacks in his safe—what amount he could not state.

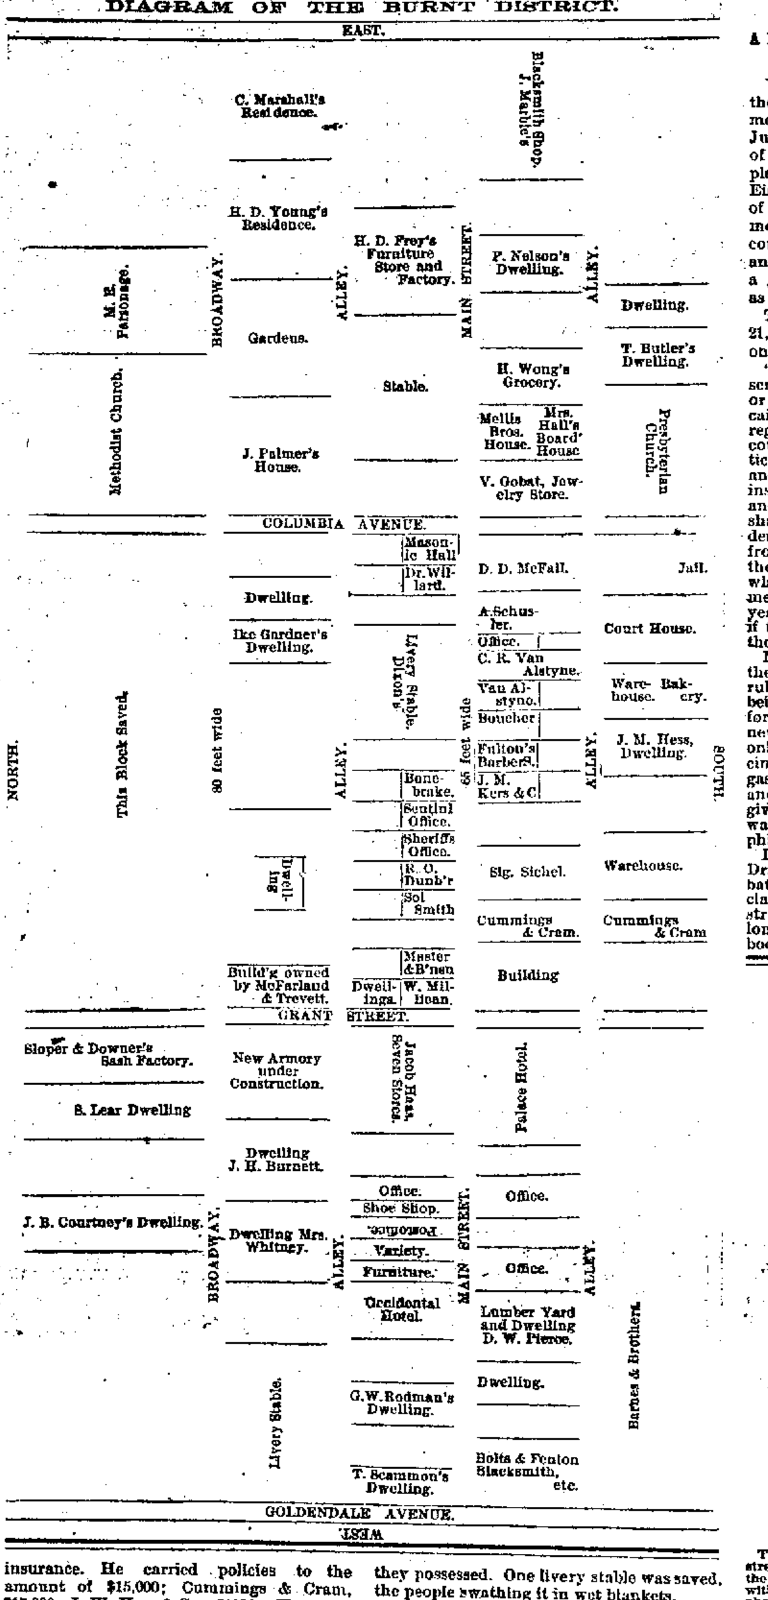
INSURANCE.

Mr. Sichel could give only a few figures on insurance. He carried policies to the amount of $15,000; Cummings & Cram, $17,000; J. W. Hess & Co., $1000. The total insurance will probably not exceed $50,000.

DIAGRAM OF THE BURNT DISTRICT.



SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

THIRTY-FIVE FAMILIES HOMELESS—NO FOOD LEFT FOR SUPPER—MASS MEETING.

The fire raged for four hours. Toward sundown a mass meeting was held in the court house square, W. R. Dunber, presiding. Everybody who had a spare room offered it to the sufferers, and farmers who came into town generally offered to take care of all they could. Several families availed themselves of the hospitality. Mounted guards volunteered and kept watch over the rescued property.

The militia had a supply of ammunition stored at the court house. It exploded creating much excitement but doing no damage.

Cummings & Cram could not open the combination of their safe, and its contents went through the fire. Mr. Sichel saved his books and papers. Nearly all the merchants saved their books.

The disposition among property-owners and merchants, almost without exception, is "to stay with the town."

Mr. Rinehart, editor of the Sentinel, will arrive here to-day, to purchase a new plant for his paper.

Mr. Sichel, without a moment's delay, bought a tent and sent up a stock of dishes, provisions, stoves, blankets and other necessaries, and will resume business "at the old stand" by to-morrow. He says the jobbers here showed friendly spirit by offering him all the goods he wanted.

Mrs. J. B. Courtney and Mrs. A. L. Miller were seriously ill, but were removed to places of safety. There was no loss of life or injury to person, beyond exhaustion.

All the stores being destroyed, the town was practically without food, except that which happened to be on hand in the dwellings which did not burn. The people went without supper Sunday night.

The board of trade of this city will appoint a committee to solicit funds for the sufferers by the fire.

The people are literally burned out of "house and home." The school house fortunately escaped the general destruction, and is crowded with the homeless.

About thirty-five families are in a state of utter destitution, having lost everything that they possessed. One livery stable was saved, the people swathing it in wet blankets.

The A. P. Hotaling Company had two buildings in Goldendale. One that was rented steadily for $15 a month, not insured, burned. The other, which stood idle, insured, was saved.

THERE WAS NO DECISION.

The Narrow Gauge Lease Case Will Probably Lie Over Till October.

Mr. J. B. Montgomery yesterday received a dispatch from Washington stating that no decision had been rendered in the case of the Oregonian Railway Company (limited) against the O. R. & N. Co., and that the matter had been taken under advisement till the next term of court.

Mr. Montgomery, who built a large portion of the narrow gauge, and is one of the largest stockholders in the Oregonian Railway Company, when asked if he was disappointed at this, replied:

"No. I did not expect that any decision would be rendered at this time, notwithstanding reports to that effect. When I was in Washington, a month ago, I called on our lawyers, Attorney-General Garland and Senator Edmunds, who informed me that the decision would probably be delayed on account of the death of Chief Justice Waite till the fall term of court, probably in October."

"Did these gentlemen express any opinion as to what the result would be?"

"They felt confident that the decision would be in favor of the Oregonian Railway Company."

Mr. Montgomery is the person who went over to Scotland and induced the stockholders of the Oregonian Railway Company there to lease the road to the O. R. & N. Co. He has yet the letter from Mr. Villard proposing every important stipulation in the lease.

HE GOT THERE,

But He Was a Trifle Backward in His Diction.

A Chinaman who is often employed as an interpreter, and who speaks tolerably poor English, writes the following note, which explains itself, and also shows that a man may understand English as she is spoke without knowing much about her as she is writ:

Dear Madam:—That boy I have told about you Mrs L want him with stay rise little more wages He do not want to come I do not think the boy do right I am feel very sorry He do not come make much dispoint you

HE HAD NOT REGISTERED.

A Doctor Charged With Administering Morphine Contrary to the New Law.

Yesterday afternoon the first case under the new law, relating to the prescribing of morphine by physicians, came up before Justice Bushwiler. The case was, the State of Oregon vs. Dr. O. Gunderson. The complaint, which is made by one Dr. William Eisen, alleges that O. Gunderson on the 15th of April last unlawfully prescribed the use of morphine without having registered with the county clerk his name, address and the name and location of the institute of which he is a graduate, and the date of his graduation, as prescribed by the act of the last legislature.

The act referred to was passed February 21, 1887, and the following clause is the one on which the action is brought:

"No physician or pharmacist shall prescribe the use of opium, morphine, eng-she or cooked opium, hydrate of chloral or cocaine, unless he or she shall previously have registered with the county clerk of the county wherein he or she resides and practices his or her profession, his or her name and address, the name and location of the institute of which he or she is a graduate, and the date of his graduation. He or she shall also exhibit his or her diploma in evidence to the county clerk, or a certificate from a board of pharmacy, if there be one in the county; provided, that all physicians who have been engaged in the practice of medicine in this state for the period of two years preceding the passage of this act shall, if they so desire, be excused from presenting their diploma."

Messrs. Caples and Mulkey, counsel for the defense, filed a demurrer, which was overruled by the court. The plea of not guilty being then made, the trial of the case was set for Monday, May 22. Dr. Gunderson is a newcomer to Portland, and has resided here only three months. He states that the medicine was administered in a serious case of gastric fever, and while in consultation with another physician. The amount of the dose given, in connection with other ingredients, was one-twenty-fourth of a grain of morphine.

Immediately after the disposal of the case, Dr. Gunderson swore out an assault and battery complaint against Dr. Eisen. He claims that towards the end of March Eisen struck him and used threatening and abusive language, the action taking place at Holm's book store on Washington street.

CONDITIONS.

We are large advertisers.

In order to determine exactly what newspapers bring us the largest returns for an equal amount of advertising, we have begun this novel test.

This advertisement will be inserted in every daily and weekly paper in this city for every issue for ten days exactly. The coupons (for 10 days only) are worth $1.00 each for the purchase of any suit in our Clothing Department: for example, if you buy a suit for $15.00 you pay $14.00 and this $1.00 coupon.

We shall preserve every coupon presented. They will tell the story. In order to have them presented, we make them worth $1.00 toward the purchase of any suit in our Clothing Department up to Sunday, May 20. Remember the date. They will not be accepted after Saturday, May 19, at 10 P. M.

Our prices will not be advanced one cent because of this plan. It will cost us many dollars, but the information obtained will save us many dollars. Such data is most valuable, and valuable information usually costs money.

We allow our customers $1.00 each to help us for 10 days in this work. One coupon only can be accepted on each purchase, and no customer will be allowed to present but one coupon during the 10 days' time. A. ROBERTS,

THE MOST ABSOLUTE
ASSURANCE OF INCREASE
ON INVESTMENTS.

—ALBINA, OREGON.—

As a place for
INVESTMENT OF CAPITAL
IN REAL ESTATE

or in manufacturing and other enterprises, Albina presents to-day the most absolute assurance of the largest increase on such investments of any spot in Oregon. It is beautifully situated on the river opposite the north end of Portland, and DOWN the river from the central portion of Portland. The bridges already built, under construction and contemplated, are fast driving the heavy business of the city and nearly all of the shipping further and further down stream. Soon all of it will be carried on below the railway and passenger bridge. Albina will get the benefit of this move, and even now she has the

in Oregon.

The Mammoth
Union Car and Machine Shops

built by the Northern Pacific Terminal Co., in which the O. R. & N. Co., the Union Pacific, the Oregon Short Line, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific Companies are interested, are located here. These shops have just been completed, and will soon commence operations with a large force of workmen.

Other industrial enterprises are located here, among which are the Portland Flouring Mills, the largest in Oregon. A dry dock capable of accommodating the largest ship afloat, is now also under construction.

Several companies are now organizing to embark in other industrial and manufacturing enterprises, all of which will be located at Albina, because it is here that running into the Pacific Northwest terminates, and all enterprises of magnitude must first take into consideration the transportation facilities when deciding on a locality for their plant.

Two Street Car Lines to run
Through the Central Portion of the city and on across the peninsula to the banks of the Columbia are to be pushed vigorously to completion, one being now under construction and the franchise procured and iron ordered for the other.

No other locality in Oregon has such solid, substantial backing. No other spot in Oregon can have just the peculiar combination of which are sure to make Albina a GREAT BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL CENTER.
